Israeli Troops Force Canal Blockade

CAIRO — An Egyptian spokesman insisted yesterday that the entire Suez Canal must be surveyed before 15 stranded foreign ships can be released. He said firing by Israeli troops made the task impossible.

Mohamed Hassan el Zayyat told a news conference the trapped vessels would remain blocked in the 107-mile canal until it can be determined if they should be released through Port Said at the canal's northern end or the Suez outlet in the south.

He said the stranded American ship Observer wanted to leave through Port Said.

Israeli and Egyptian guns exchanged fire Tuesday after Egyptian boats tried to survey the northern half of the canal. Israel has agreed that the canal's southern end can be cleared of sunken vessels to free the 15 stranded ships, but says any clearing operations in the northern end violate a cease-fire agreement that neither Egyptian nor Israeli forces would use the canal.

Johnson Continues Talks on Asian Crisis

WASHINGTON — The Johnson administration held in reserve yesterday a broad response to the Red terror attacks throughout South Vietnam pending more information on the outcome of the Communist assaults.

The White House disclosed President Johnson met Tuesday night with the Senate and House Republican leaders, received intelligence reports during the night on the attacks on the Saigon embassy and other targets, and breakfasted yesterday morning with senior members of the Senate and House Armed Services and Appropriations committees.

Press secretary George Christian said the President told the congressional leaders of both parties that the Asian crisis might require him to propose special measures which he hopes would be considered in a nonpartisan atmosphere.

However, the presidential spokesman said Johnson did not discuss any specific measures, and he emphasized there may be no need for such proposals.

Nixon Expected To Announce Candidacy

NEW YORK — Everything points to it: Richard M. Nixon will announce today his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination, and leave immediately on a campaign swing through New Hampshire, Wisconsin and Oklahoma.

The three states afford the first tests of the strength of the former vice president, leader in all the polls of GOP voters. He carried all three states in his narrow 1960 loss to John F. Kennedy for the presidency.

New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation primary is March 12. The Wisconsin primary follows on April 2. Oklahoma holds the first GOP state convention on Feb. 24, to elect delegates to the August (Miami Beach) convention.

A spokesman in Nixon's New York headquarters said only that he will have a statement on his candidacy, but the campaign schedule left no doubt about its nature.

Nixon holds a news conference in Manchester, N.H., tomorrow, and on Saturday attends a Manchester reception with his wife and daughters and addresses a Nixon for President dinner in Concord.

New Hampshire Primary Set

CONCORD, N.H. — New Hampshire's presidential stakes closed yesterday with 15 entries for the March 12 primary, but only six of any real significance.

On the Republican side it is shaping up as a battle between former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Michigan Gov. George Romney, with a possible write-in for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, who says he isn't running.

Eleven Republicans' names were entered. On the Democratic side Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., is entered as a peace candidate to test sentiment against President Johnson. The latter's supporters have a write-in campaign going for the President.

Another Democratic group is working on a write-in for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., despite his publicly expressed opposition.

ConCon Continues Debate on Court Reform

HARRISBURG — The Constitutional Convention's Judiciary Committee appeared to be nearing agreement late yesterday on a package of proposals to overhaul and unify Pennsylvania's court system.

There were still some rough edges to be smoothed out, but former Gov. William W. Scranton and Gustave G. Amsterdam of Philadelphia, committee cochairmen, said the package would be put to a final vote today.

In a major development yesterday, the committee voted, 22-13, to permit Allegheny County to determine by local option election whether it wants to retain the minor judiciary system or change to a system of community courts.

As the revised proposal now stands, every county but Philadelphia would be given this option. Philadelphia would be required to abolish its magistrates courts, replacing them with a 22-judge municipal court and a six-judge traffic court.

Other features of the plan would reduce the number of justices of the peace in counties that elect to retain them; abolish the fee system; and establish mandatory training programs for all members of the minor judiciary.

Budget Message Scheduled for Wednesday

HARRISBURG — Gov. Shafer yesterday scheduled his 1967-68 budget message for Feb. 7 and told the Republican legislative leadership his administration was confronted with some $178 million in mandated spending increases.

The outline of Shafer's new spending program, expected to exceed $2 billion for the first time in history, was reviewed at a meeting with Senate Majority Leader Stanley G. Stroup; Senate President Pro Tempore Robert D. Fleming; House Majority Leader Lee A. Donaldson Jr., and House Majority Whip Robert J. Butera.

The lawmakers were summoned back to Harrisburg for a one-day session to receive the budget. The Legislature has been in recess during most of January so the Constitutional Convention could use its facilities.

Shafer again told the leadership he would propose no new taxes for 1967-68 and recalled the warning in his State of the Commonwealth message last Jan. 22.

State Investigates Ingram Gas Explosion

PITTSBURGH — State officials and the Equitable Gas Co. began an investigation yesterday to find out what caused the gas explosion that blew apart a business and apartment building in suburban Ingram, killing at least eight persons.

Of the 18 injured in the Tuesday afternoon blast, 13 were still in hospitals, three in serious condition.

The coroner's office said at least one other person was still missing.

"Our investigation probably will last the rest of the week," an Equitable spokesman said. "We may never know what caused the explosion."

The Public Utility Commission sent a team of investigators to the scene and scheduled a public hearing in Pittsburgh for Feb. 15 to take testimony from all parties who can throw any light on this tragic accident.

PUC Chairman George Bloom said the commission wants "full hearings to let the public know, so far as can be determined, just what took place and ascertain what remedial measures may be necessary."

Viet Cong Casualties High

Sporadic Attacks Continue
As Quiet Settles in Saigon

SAIGON (P) — The Communists have paid nearly 5,000 dead in their frenzied guerrilla strikes at Saigon and other major centers throughout South Vietnam this week, the U.S. Command said this morning.

A soaring general casualty toll was announced as the third day of the coordinated Communist campaign brought new clashes in outlying sections of Saigon and heavy action in other parts of the country.

Command spokesman said 4,959 enemy were killed in action from 6 p.m. Monday to midnight yesterday. Another 1,862 persons were seized as Viet Cong suspects.

U.S. casualties for the period were listed as 232 killed and 929 wounded. South Vietnamese government casualties were 300 killed and 747 wounded, a spokesman said.

660 Viet Cong Killed

South Vietnamese authorities said 660 Viet Cong were killed in Saigon alone in less than two days of fighting. There was no immediate word on the number of civilian casualties in the capital or elsewhere across the nation, but they were believed to have been heavy.

Downtown Saigon was quiet early today, but skirmishing continued in suburban areas. Bands of Viet Cong, some disguised in government uniforms, roamed the city.

The Communists captured part of Hue, the old imperial capital 400 miles north of Saigon, and seized control of half of Kontum in the central highlands. Two other major cities along the coastline in the north, Nha Trang and Qui Nhon, came under fresh mortar attacks and ground probes for the third straight day.

President Nguyen Van Thieu declared martial law throughout the nation in the wake of attacks against the U.S. Embassy and military and civilian installations from Hue to the Mekong Delta.

The U.S. Command reported shortly after midnight that the situation in Saigon was under control, but soon afterward the Viet Cong blew up a power station in the Cholon section and attacked two national police stations there.

The two police stations in Cholon were attacked within 30 minutes of each other, with 40 to 50 Viet Cong blazing away with small arms and machine guns, informants said.

There were several minor attacks on U.S. installations in Saigon, where at least 12 U.S. soldiers and Marines were killed yesterday in fending off a guerrilla onslaught at the U.S. Embassy and other installations.

The U.S. Command announced that 45 U.S. soldiers had been killed and 313 wounded in the last 24 hours of fighting in the Saigon area.

In the western suburbs, 300 Viet Cong attacked the headquarters of the South Vietnamese 5th Infantry Division.

"It is felt that we now have the initiative and that we are no longer reacting to enemy-initiated actions but are seeking out the enemy," the U.S. Command said at 12:30 a.m.

But small-arms fire still sounded, there were fires in the outskirts, and parachute flares lighted the night sky, where roving fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships lashed at the enemy.

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker said this Viet Cong attack was obviously premeditated, planned well in advance and carefully coordinated with similar assaults elsewhere around the country.

The 74-year-old diplomat noted the enemy offensive was launched during the period in which the Viet Cong had proclaimed a one-week cease-fire for the lunar new year Tet. Both the Viet Cong truce and a 36-hour stand-down ordered by the allies had dissolved in the fury of the conflict.

Bunker cast doubt on whether there would be further truces in the war. Asked whether the allies would ever agree to another holiday halt in hostilities, he said: "I think it is very problematical that we can."

The threat of a big push by three or four divisions of North Vietnamese reguars against U.S. Marine and South Vietnamese government posts below the demilitarized zone was cited by the ambassador as a parallel to the guerrilla operations.

Viet Cong Claims

The Viet Cong claimed "resounding victories" in statements relayed from Hanoi. Speaking for the allies, President Nguyen Van Thieu declared: "The Communists' general offensive attempt has been completely foiled."

Thieu proclaimed martial law across South Vietnam and urged civilians either to help the allied troops or clear out of areas infiltrated by enemy elements to give the counterattackers clear fields of fire.

His government will rule by decree until further notice, rather than under the constitutional parliamentary system inaugurated last fall. The president ordered all bars, theaters, night clubs and other places of entertainment closed. All gatherings and demonstrations were banned.

YAF Drug Board Endorses Legalization of Marijuana

The Young Americans for Freedom resolution to legalize marijuana was endorsed by the 6-member panel of the YAF-sponsored drug forum last night.

Members of the panel agreed that using marijuana was harmless, but John Walmer, a psychiatrist from the Department of Education, said that "as we are responsible for our behavior and capable of making a choice, we should be willing to take the punishment for violating a law we have chosen to break."

Walmer also said that students with a drug problem are reluctant to seek help from any of the University agencies because of concern that their questions will bring them under the suspicion of the law. "Can a student confess to a member of the Division of Counseling, for instance, even about his roommate, and know that it will go no further?" he asked.

Edward Widmer, director of the Jawbone Coffee House, favors clinics for users of "heavy drugs" but said that "there was no need to rehabilitate marijuana users, as there wasn't nearly enough staff to handle it in any case." Enforcement of the narcotics law, have been taken from the Health Department, which was equipped to attempt rehabilitation of users before subjecting them to penalties, and given to the State Police. Now addicts must be prosecuted before they can be rehabilitated, Widmer said.

Max Molinaro, a member of Students for a Democratic Society, said that "The war (to get marijuana legalized) is won. The sons and daughters of congressmen and senators and even administrators are turning on right now."

"People have contempt for the law because they see it as unjust," Molinaro said. "I can't think of any reason to keep a 10 or 11 year old child from smoking pot—it is better than tobacco or alcohol," he said.

James Huber, instructor of sociology, expects "extensive use of marijuana to solve a growing problem—what to do with our leisure time. Marijuana users find University life too structured, too bound, too tied to the establishment for them to make use of the resources of the University. They have a desire for expressive activities, little use for Robert's Rules of Order."

The real problem, Walmer said, is that "marijuana is another drug upon which people become psychologically dependent. Use of drugs is a temporary happy escape from responsibilities, but marijuana for you is the same as TV for your parents. The answer—stop smoking and start working," Widmer said.

Koreans Hint At Crew Release

SEOUL (AP)—A Communist North Korean leader hinted yesterday that the crew of the Pueblo might be released under certain conditions. He said future developments in the Korean crisis depends on the United States.

The radio at Pyongyang, the capital of North Korea, said Kim Kwang Hyup, secretary of the Central Committee of the North Korean Workers' Communist party, mentioned the capture of the intelligence ship at a reception for a Romanian Communist party delegation.

"It is a miscalculation if the U.S. imperialists think that they can solve the incident of the intrusion of the Pueblo into the territorial waters of our country by military threats or by the method of aggressive war or through illegal discussion at the United Nations."

"It will be a difficult story if they want to solve this question by method of the previous practice. But they will get nothing if they persist in their present method."

Kim Ambiguous
Kim did not say what he meant by previous practice. But on the receipt of a U.S. apology, two crewmen of a U.S. Army helicopter shot down when it strayed over North Korea were released in May of 1964. This however, was a year after their capture.

At the United Nations, U.S.

sources quoted the North Korean broadcast as saying "there is a precedent for treatment of similar cases at the Korean Military Armistice Commission," a reference to the meetings at Panmunjom between the Communists, the United States and North Korea.

In Tokyo, an official of a press North Korean organization said he believed the crew will be released if the United States admits it violated territorial waters and promised not to repeat the incident.

The official, Paik Hang-ki, deputy chief of the foreign affairs section of the Federation of Korean Residents in Japan, said his view was unofficial but he noted Pyongyang had demanded a U.S. apology. His federation maintains contacts with North Korea.

South Koreans Mad
In Seoul, Foreign Minister Choi Kyn-ha indicated his government was displeased with the handling of the Korean crisis by the United States.

He said more attention should be paid to the North Korean attempt to assassinate President Chung Hee Paik, an 21 than to the seizure of the U.S. intelligence ship.

His government will object to any direct talks between the United States and North Korea on any proposal to exchange the Pueblo crew for North Korean infiltrators, he declared at a news conference.

Lee Byung-doo, deputy director of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency, declared that any retaliatory measures taken as a result of the two incidents should be strong.

Emphasizing he was not recommending such action, Lee told reporters that any U.S. retaliation must come in the form of heavy air strikes on all major North Korean cities.

It would not do "just to attack only one city, like the port of Wonsan where the Pueblo is held, he said, because "the moment North Korea is bombed by the United States, they will invade the South."

Bill Ready for Vote;
USG Sets College Bowl

JANE DAVIS and KITTY PHILBIN

Collegian USG Reporters

The controversial Student Protection Act of 1968 come to a vote tonight at the Undergraduate Student Government meeting.

The bill asks the University to maintain its policy about discipline, according to USG President Jeff Long. Although certain sections define particular cases in which the University would be able to exercise its authority, a later section grants unlimited authority "if the University decides that the case could be handled more beneficially by the University disciplinary system."

Because of the conflicting nature of the bill, Long described it as "ludicrous and completely off-base."

In connection with the "extended jeopardy" bill will be a resolution to delete Rule W-11 from the Senate Policies and Rules for Undergraduate Students.

The clause in question includes the words "prejudicial to the good name of the University." Long said that USG's resolution would tend to eliminate "an ambiguous clause which gives the University flexibility."

Election Revision

Other legislation includes a revised election code bill. Among the sections to be discussed tonight is one establishing an extended tenure for the USG Executive and upper class presidents.

"I think the extended tenure is a good idea," Long said, "because it gives the executive time to put his feet on the ground, make appointments and think about legislation."

Another change proposed in the bill is a higher average requirement of an all-University average of 2.30 and previous term average of 2.0 for USG executive and class presidential candidates, and a 2.20 all-U and 2.0 previous term average for Congressional candidates.

Another main point in this bill proposes a run-off election in the event that two candidates from the same living area running for the same office receive an equal number of votes.

Also on the agenda is the Senate Committee bill, which will set up a permanent system to select Senate Committees. "It is a mechanical bill and not really earth-shattering in its pronouncements, but it is extremely important," Long said.

A final bill which will be read tonight establishes a committee to organize a Spring Concert which will be sponsored by USG. If passed, Congress will allocate $6,500 to guarantee an artist and to pay for administrative and technical expenses.

College Bowl Scheduled

In other USG activities, plans are being made for a Feb. 8 annual College Bowl.

Four-member teams of students will compete in one of five categories: Residence Halls, Class, Campus Organization, Town Independent Men, or Fraternity and Sorority.

Applications are available at the information desk in the eHtel Union Building, from men's residence halls counselors and from the women's dormitory student presidents. Applications must be returned to the HUB desk by Feb. 6.

Teams of four members will include one alternate. Applications have already been received from the Young Americans for Freedom, the Class of '70, the sophomore women's honorary society Cwens, and two residence halls in East.

Beginning this year, fraternities and sororities are in a separate Greek division, and will compete beginning Feb. 19 during Greek Week.

Patterned after television's G.E. College Bowl, USG's version will have tournament-style competition in 30 minute matches. University professors will be moderators, reading the questions and determining correct answers. Questions will cover several subjects, ranging from history to science to trivia about Penn State.

Trophy Awarded

Trophies will be awarded in each category, including the Greek division. Each student entering the College Bowl will receive a certificate of participation.

Competition will be in the HUB Ballroom, from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. A schedule of the dates for the first round matches will be posted in the main floor of the HUB after the application deadline.

USG vice-president Jon Fox said the College Bowl is "one of the most interesting and exciting all-campus events that takes place during Winter Term."

Diane Clymer, chairman of the event, said that volunteers are still needed as scorekeepers and timekeepers.

Defense Secrets

Last year students at the University of Pennsylvania got upset enough to stage a successful protest against government contracts for defense work at their school.

What almost led to the resignation of the president of the university, resulted in a clean sweep of secret government work from university facilities.

A similar beat has been going on at universities and colleges elsewhere.

We wonder what the situation is like here. We know that government contracts are awarded to the University whose function as a state-supported school makes it an ideal government testing area. The size of the University, its extensive science facilities and its idyllic setting in the woods offer government researchers a peaceful, desirable setting to develop their not-so-peaceful, desirable work.

A high percentage of government contract work involves war. While the presence of government workers on campus to work on any kind of research is debatable, the presence of government workers for defense work is inexcusable. It violates an educational atmosphere.

It may seem too idealistic to expect a university to be free of government contract work. We may be too "purist" to expect a university to devote all of its resources solely to educational related activities, and not to government.

But it is very realistic to expect a university to make known how much of its facilities are going to government work and of what nature. And it is very realistic, too, to expect the University to loosen the wraps around much of the secrecy that surrounds work of this sort.

How many government contracts are awarded? How much of the University is being used for this work? How much money is involved?

How much of all this is really necessary? We don't agree with government use of the University for defense contract work.

But, if the University is going to continue its cooperation with the government in this kind of work, we demand to know some of the details.

BERRY'S WORLD

Letter To The Editor

Does Shore Make a Point?

TO THE EDITOR: For the first six of my terms at Penn State I have been pleasantly amused reading the columns of your music critics. However for the last two terms Mr. Shore seems to have left his discretion and taste at home in a bucket when he reviews an orchestral concert.

As a member of the University Symphony Orchestra and having had six years previous experience playing with other symphony orchestras, I feel that I do know something about music and how it should be appraised. Mr. Shore's articles are lacking actual critical analysis, and what little analysis he does give us is inaccurate and misleading.

The classic example of his failure to be a music critic appeared in the Collegian of January 24, in his attempted review of the Royal Philharmonic concert. After spouting phrases such as "extraordinary technique and execution" and "excellent command of dynamics," Mr. Shore goes on to discuss the blurred horn passages in the Brahms.

I do not mean to put Mr. Shore down, but in each of these "criticisms" he is out of line. The orchestral playing was very sloppy, especially in the Stravinsky and the balance was such that the first violins could not be heard through most of the concert. It also seems to me that if you are going out of your way to mention one blurred passage in the horns that you might as well also mention a few cracked trumpet notes in the third section of the Stravinsky.

Mr. Shore is simply not a music critic and should not be allowed to "play pretend" until he can come to grasp with what a music critic must be able to do. He may be qualified to review Jazz Club concerts or IFC concerts, but he does not appear to have the tools to criticize an orchestral performance.

Why doesn't the Collegian get someone who can?

Robert Specter '69

Editor's Note: Shore says he "stands by what he's written" and maintains that "as for the inaudibility of the first violins, the blame must fall upon poor acoustics and not upon improper balance."

Shore also said he will be "glad to refute Mr. Specter's arguments in person" if Specter is interested in discussing music criticism further.

Pass/Fail: A Test Of Practicality?

Students sometimes sound bitter and unsure of themselves when they complain about grades because the grading system as it's known at the University is often a confused tradition of unfair operation and undefined results.

The motives behind the existence of grades are the basic causes of such bitterness and uncertainty.

Some people will tell you that grades are necessary in order to force students into studying. They say that without the threat of grades, students would cut classes, forget about books, and have no motives to learn.

To a certain degree, this might be a valid argument. Some students study only for the reason that they know they are being marked. Unfortunately, the desire to learn is very much lacking in too many college students.

Judging the attitude of many Penn State students, it's rare to find anyone who goes out of his way to "seek knowledge." Students learn only what is convenient for them to learn. For the most part, they are spoon-fed. And they digest what they are fed because of the ever-present menace of the grade.

The same people who tell you that without grades students would not study, might also tell you that grades are necessary because they are an indication of how much a student has learned. They'll say that A's, B's, 4.0's, etc., allow the outside world to measure how "smart" a student is.

To anyone who has labored under the present grading system, it should be readily apparent that this is not the case. Rather, grades measure how much a student has memorized, how lucky he is in "regurgitating" what he has digested, and how successful he has been in "brown-nosing."

In too few instances are grades a true indication of the degree to which a student understands a subject, his ability to think logically, and, perhaps most importantly, his ability to apply what he has learned.

Now, however, we have a partial escape from grades: the Satisfactory-Unsatisfactory Grading System. Popularly known as the pass/fail system, it was approved by the University Senate two weeks ago, and will go into effect in the Fall Term.

Under this concept, students will take courses without receiving a standard grade. The only marks will be either "pass" or "fail."

No more than 18 credits will be allowed under the new system, and not all departments will permit students to take subjects in their major field on a pass/fail basis. The concept is therefore limited, but at least it's a start.

Opposition to pass/fail has been caused by one portion of the new policy's wording: "Satisfactory" in a course scheduled on a satisfactory-unsatisfactory basis shall be defined as the equivalent of 'D' or better on the conventional grading system in that course."

This means that students have to earn only a "D" to receive the grade of "satisfactory," and some students and faculty members have viewed this as a lazy way to get through a course. But it comes back to the same point: should college students need grades to motivate them?

Idealistically, grades shouldn't be necessary. Pass/fail, however, will put this view to a practical test. And if students show enough sense to take advantage of the new system, pass/fail could take some of the bitterness and uncertainty out of the grading system.

Student Playwrights Write For Five O'Clock Theatre

By ALAN SLUTSKIN
Collegian Drama Critic

"The Suicide of Michael Palmer" will be presented by the Five O'Clock Theatre at 5 p.m. today in the Playhouse.

The play is the first of five productions, all written by University students, to be presented by the Five O'Clock Theatre this term. The student theatrical group will thus act as a proving ground for aspiring student playwrights.

Mark Berman, faculty adviser to the Five O'Clock Theatre, described the experiment as "the absolutely necessary first step for potential playwrights." Berman, whose works have been produced in New York, San Francisco and at the Tyrone Guthrie Theatre in Minneapolis, added that while a playwright's works may read extremely well, their dramatic worth is proved only after their first production.

Five of the six productions to be presented this term were written by students in Theatre Arts 21, a playwrighting course. Most of the students have never written a play before and none have ever had one produced.

The student directors of the Five O'Clock Theatre will consider any original script. Casting is also open to all students.

"The Suicide of Michael Palmer," written by Steve Czetti and directed by Alan Lindgren, is basically an identity crisis. Steve Hubickak will portray a college student searching vainly for meaning in life.

This character study will be contrasted by a more situational piece written by Lisa Bredbenner and directed by Paul Ulrich. "This Sign Wasn't Here Last Week" is set in a contemporary, American urban center and deals with the terror that can be held in the most unlikely situations. A more realistic work "One More Game," written by Gino Paisano and directed by Roger Thomas, also contains a contemporary setting, but deals with the problems of a modern day ethnic minority group.

The second half of the bill scheduled for this term begins with "The Clowns." Written by Cynthia Bloom and directed by Dave Bigoney, "The Clowns" relies upon visual and theatrical effects. It uses mime and some expressionistic techniques to present the story of two clowns who are no longer able to make children laugh.

"Nobody's Innocent Child," written by Lucretia Bramlett and directed by Lou Florimonte, whose original work, "Into The Rose Garden," was produced by University Theatre in May 1966, will make use of lighting effects to define time. Like "The Suicide Of Michael Palmer," "Nobody's Innocent Child" is an identity crisis; a probe into the depths of an individual's being.

The final Five O'Clock presentation for the Winter Term is "Are You Able, Cain," written by Virginia Brower and directed by John Orlock. The play falls within the boundaries of the newest of concepts in modern theatre. It is highly stylized and almost void of content. With the play operating on a realistic level, the content is implied while the style almost literally becomes the content.

The six plays will all begin at 5:20 p.m. Thursdays. The first two will be presented in the Playhouse, the next three in the Pavilion and the last in the Playhouse.

Ten Finalists Picked For Beauty Contest

Ten coeds have been selected to compete as finalists in the Junior Class Queen Contest.

They are Betsy Snyder (8th-German-Camp Hill) sponsored by Alpha Chi Omega; Nadeen McShane (8th-English-Munhall) sponsored by Kappa Delta; Mary Lou Alfano (7th-nursery school education-Media) sponsored by Kappa Alpha Theta; Shelly Todd (8th-speech-Coraopolis) sponsored by Alpha Kappa Alpha; Pat Estey (8th-family studies-Swarthmore) sponsored by Sigma Sigma Sigma; Judy Korenkiewicz (9th-family studies-Shamokin) sponsored by Town Independent Men's Council; Sherri Donghia (9th-family studies-Vandergrift) sponsored by Phi Mu; Alice Paterson (8th-English-Huntingdon) sponsored by Phi Mu Alpha; Janet Tkach (8th-secondary education-Coraopolis) sponsored by Zeta Tau Alpha; Cynthia Roberts (7th-fashion merchandising-Cranford, N.J.) sponsored by Kappa Delta.

Preliminary interviews were held last week to choose 24 semi-finalists from 69 applicants.

From these 24 girls, the ten finalists who make up the queen's court were chosen for their poise, personality and appearance. University faculty and staff members and downtown businessmen were judges. The selection of a class queen is an annual event for the class of '69. The winner of the Junior Class Queen Contest will receive a trophy and gift certificates from State College merchants.

The contest will end with a jammy from 9 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. tomorrow in the ballroom of the Hetzel Union Building. Laurence H. Lattman, professor of geomorphology, will act as master of ceremonies. The queen will be announced at 11:30 p.m.

Voting will take place today and tomorrow on the ground floor of the HUB. The entire student body is eligible to vote. Activities cards must be presented. Students must also purchase a 35 cent ticket for the jammy in order to vote. Voting will then be continued at the jammy until 11 p.m. Proceeds will go to the Junior Class.

W-2 Forms Now at Shields

University students who have not yet received a W-2 form for wages earned on the University payroll in 1967, should either call Payroll Division, 865-7621, or contact 301 Shields.

More than 2,000 W-2 Forms, which are needed in completing federal income tax returns, have been sent back to the University as undeliverable.

According to University officials, many have been returned because the student no longer lives at the address used at the time he was employed.

Revolving Loan Fund
The Harris N. and Elizabeth Brown Summer Revolving Loan Fund has been established at the University under provisions of the will of the late Harris Newton Summer, of Waynesboro. The fund of approximately $100,000 is designated as a memorial to the Class of 1911, of which Summer was a member.

The loan fund is intended to aid worthy students in the College of Engineering who have satisfactorily completed two years of study and who are in need of financial assistance. The loans will be made without interest, and are to be repaid eight years after the date of the

Navy Drill Team

Mother's Day is still months away, but the Navy ROTC drill team at the University already has an eye on the coveted President's Cup.

The cup, awarded to the ROTC unit with the outstanding basic and trick drill teams in the annual Mother's Day drill competition, was captured last spring by the Navy for the third consecutive year. It was retired by the Navy team.

A new trophy will be on hand for the competition this Spring. Midshipman 2/c Charles M. Woerner, of Altoona, commands the trick drill team, and although only four members of his drill squad are veterans from last year's team, he expects that "this will be another successful year."

Seymour Retires

Chief Gunnery's Mate Joe R. Seymour, USN, on the Navy ROTC staff at the University for nearly four years, has retired after more than 23 years of active service in the Navy.

At a retirement ceremony, held in the presence of the University Naval ROTC Battalion, Captain LeRoy B. Fraser, professor of naval science, presented Chief Seymour with a letter of appreciation as "a token of the entire Unit's collective esteem, and an indication of the high regard" in which he was held.

Grant for Technical Services

An award of a $34,000 Federal matching grant to the University for the support of technical services programs for commerce and industry in Pennsylvania has been announced by the Office of State Technical Services, U.S. Department of Commerce.

The grant is the third received by Pennsylvania in support of technical services projects designed to encourage a more effective use of science and technology by commerce, business and industry.

Frey, Bruce at Conference

John C. Frey and E. Bruce Jones, of the Institute for Research on Land and Water Resources at the University, will attend the Third Annual Water Resources Research Conference in Washington, D.C., this week.

Frey, who directs the Institute for Research on Land and Water Resources, attended the Northeast Regional Public Affairs Committee meeting last Thursday and Friday at Hartford, Conn.

Teacher Test In Chambers

The National Teachers Examination will be administered between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Saturday in 123 Chambers, rather than 108 Forum as was previously announced. Scores for this exam need to be presented when applying for some teaching jobs in certain areas of Pennsylvania.

Minimum Wage Hiked

WASHINGTON (P) — Some 7.3 million low-income workers will add $2.3 billion to their pay today as the second stage of a five-year increase in federal wage minimums goes into effect.

Workers engaged in interstate commerce or in the production of goods for interstate commerce or employed in large enterprises will have their wages increased from $1.40 an hour to $1.60 an hour under the new regulations. Some 33 million workers—mainly in manufacturing, transportation, wholesale trade, large retail stores, finance, insurance and real estate—are affected but in reality only some 6 million will get an increase in pay. The others already make more than the minimum.

Another 8.5 million workers—those employed in the service industries such as hospitals, nursing homes, smaller retail stores, laundries, restaurants, hotels and on larger farms—will be affected by an increase in their minimum wage from $1 an hour to $1.15 an hour. Some 1.3 million of these will see actual increases in their pay.

The minimums for those workers will increase by 15 cents every year until $1.60 an hour is reached on Feb. 1, 1971.

The first step in the biggest minimum wage increase in history went into effect last Feb. 1 when the hourly rate was increased from $1.25 to $1.40. It also brought some 8 million additional workers under the law but at the lower minimum of $1 an hour.

Workers in public schools, hospitals and other state institutions are covered by the wage standards passed last year but a federal judge in Baltimore issued a restraining order until the Supreme Court rules in a test case. The high court agreed last month to hear the case. Maryland and Texas, speaking also for 26 other states, challenged the extension of federal minimum wage and hour standards to state employees.

The latest increases again brought some protests of higher costs and smaller work forces but many spokesmen for the industries affected said they already were meeting the minimum standards. The Labor Department tended to agree with the latter group.

In Chicago, a spokesman for Michael Reese Hospital and Medical Center said: "There is no question hospital charges will go up . . . When labor costs rise there is only one place the hospital can get additional income—from the patients."

Harry Bodker, owner of Deluxe Drive-in Laundry and Cleaners in Kansas City, Kan., said since laundry workers are now coming under the $1.15 an hour law "We're raising our prices by a penny a shirt."

Fred Collins, manager of Ramada Inns in Atlanta, said:

"The federal government is making a mistake. First of all, we must cut our staff and then I think an increase in the price of rooms will follow almost immediately."

The manager of a Kroger grocery store in Atlanta said he will cut out all overtime and hire additional part-time help to avoid the higher overtime rates.

Under the new provisions, workers making $1.60 an hour minimum are entitled to time and one-half pay after 40 hours a week. The others receive the bonus pay after 42 hours and will get the 40-hour week on Feb. 1, 1969.

Collegian Clarification

Neil Buckley, regional traveler for the Students for a Democratic Society, said yesterday that many students—not just those in the organization he represents—have faced arrests for narcotics violations. The Daily Collegian reported Tuesday that the activist organization has "borne the brunt" of crack downs by narcotics agents.

Buckley said Tuesday that many "straight" students (those not members of any campus political organizations) have been charged with possession of drugs.

Buckley also said that three members of SDS were not arrested for possession and intent to sell marijuana Jan. 8, as The Daily Collegian reported. Only one of the three students was actually an SDS member at the time of the arrests, Buckley said.

Argentine Author To Discuss Latin American Literature

JORGE LUIS BORGES

The man considered by many American critics as the greatest living Spanish-language writer will be the guest speaker for the first program of the 1968 Graduate School Lecture Series to be presented at the University.

Jorge Luis Borges, Argentine poet, short-story writer and essayist, and a prominent candidate in recent years for the Nobel prize in literature, will speak at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 7 in the Hetzel Union Building Assembly Room. His topic will be "Discussions on Socialism."

The lecture, open to the public, will be in English.

According to a recent article in the New York Times, Borges feels that the rich, but long overlooked field of Latin American literature is slowly coming to life on American university campuses.

He believes that for many years failure of American intellectuals to read Spanish or show any interest in Latin American literature led to the alienation of many Latin American writers who then sought recognition in Western Europe or the Communist nations.

Borges is currently holding the Elliot Norton Chair of Poetry at Harvard University and is lecturing at selected universities.

His first book of poems, "Fervor de Buenos Aires," appeared in 1923 and since then he has written many books of poems, essays and short stories.

Two collections of his tales have appeared in English: "Ficciones," and "Labyrinths." An increasing number of his works are now appearing in translation in the United States and Europe.

Oh Yes, It's True, 'The Owl Is Dead'

Litwack Bushwacked; Lions Top Temple Owls, 81-68

By RON KOLB
Assistant Sports Editor

The fans started yelling it with 12:44 left to play, when Penn State held a 57-44 lead. With 1:38 left, they yelled it again, and the Lions were on top, 74-63. Finally, what they were predicting was verified. The Owl was dead, 81-68.

Harry Litwack had just lit his defeat cigar outside the Temple locker room. He summed up what Penn State did to win the battle.

"They outfought, outthusted, outshot and outplayed us," he said in a rather discouraged tone. Litwack couldn't have given a better resume even if he had planned it. After 12 games of almost constant frustration, everything seemed to fit in place for the Nittany Lions: the shots, the rebounds, the hustle, the fans, the bounces, and finally the score. An emotional John Egli called it his team's greatest basketball effort of the year, and to upset the heavily-favored Philadelphia power (11-5), it had to be.

"The boys worked hard all week," the coach said. "I gave them the dickens and they responded. When it pays off in hard work, everyone understands."

No one understood better than Tom Daley, the 6-2 guard who was benched at the start for lack of hustle. Gregg Hamilton took his place in the first half and did an exceptional job, but it was his first bit of strenuous action.

"Hamilton came to me before the second half and said, 'If you're ever going to take me out, take me out now,'" Egli said. "I knew at that point that I had gotten through to them, because he told me when he was tired."

So Daley was given the call. In the next 20 minutes of play the sophomore from Lock Haven stole three passes, swished 8 of 10 shots from the floor and scored 22 points to send the Owls winging home.

Litwack was asked what he thought about Daley's play. "Who's Daley?" Papa Owl asked. When he was told that Daley was the guy who made all those second-half points, Litwack replied, "Oh, him." Funny how his memory came back so fast.

As great as Daley was in the second half, captain Jeff Persson and his five teammates were outstanding throughout the game. Persson's pinpoint passing and individual moves kept State on top for most of the first half. He finished with 16 points, 8 rebounds and a bushel of assists.

Another member of the group who had been previously blacklisted for lackadaisical play, 6-8 Bill Stansfield, had a slow start but finished with a surge of power. He topped all Lions with 11 rebounds, also flipping in 14 points. And Bill Young, a favorite bog-bird target, had 10 points and 8 rebounds. Jim Linden and Hamilton, defensive specialists who combined to hold highly-touted Clarence Brookins to 15 points, also added 15 points between them.

About the only player the defense couldn't handle was 6-5 John Baum. Temple's strong forward who led the Owls with 26 points and an amazing 19 rebounds. However, his dying gasp wasn't enough.

From the start, the game was a classic in every way. Through the first 20 minutes, both teams had 37 points, 15 field goals, 33 field goal attempts, 11 fouls tried and 7 fouls made. The carbon-copy play had Temple leading only twice through that span of time. After the midpoint, Daley got hot, the crowd verbally smothered a handful of Owl fans, and Egli's free substitution carried the Lions (6-7) the rest of the way. "A perfect game," the coach beamed.

Now he's got the momentum, only to have to wait another week to get at Syracuse, a team that has defeated the Lions twice this year. But oh, if only other teams had troubles like this. "Now we have a helluva problem," Egli said. "Who do I start?"

Sorry About That, Owls

TEMPLE CHEERLEADERS paraded around Rec Hall last night in an attempt to stir up some enthusiasm for their high-flying basketball team. They stirred the spirit all right as old Rec really rocked with sound, but it was the Penn State team on the receiving end of the cheers. The Lions only trailed twice in the game, dominating the Owls completely in the second half and rolling to an 81-68 victory.

Battle Under the Boards

THE LIONS' Bill Young jumps high in an attempt to block a shot by Temple's Clarence Brookins. Young scored 10 points and helped Penn State upset the Owls, 81-68 last night in Rec Hall. The win upped the Lions' record to 6-7 for the year.

Swimmers Lose

By DICK ZELLER

Collegian Sports Writer

Bucknell broke four pool records as the Bisons turned out an 80-33 victory over Penn State yesterday. The Lions posted three wins as Gene Weber, Erich Mehnert, and the 400-yard Freestyle Relay team outdistanced their competition.

The Lion fans had to wait until the ninth event before they finally had something to cheer about. Weber churned through the 100-yard freestyle in :54.42, only 1.1 seconds short of the school record.

Mehnert's win came in the 500-yard Freestyle with a time of 5:47.27. Earlier in the meet, Mehnert set a school record in the 200-yard freestyle with a 2:01.59, but placed third behind Bucknell's Greg Olsen who set the pool mark at 1:50.87, and Milt Grinberg at 2:00.57.

The 400 free relay team of Dennis Burkett, Jeff Pearson, Jim Conrad and Gene Weber gained their second win in a row with a 3:42.77, two seconds off their record performance last week.

Manning Takes Second

Ron Manning took second in the one meter diving and third off the three meter board in performance just below his record totals. His 140.85 in one meter was far behind the Bisons' Tom Gibson (178.25) and a 131.40 could not match the record setting 184.45 of Gibson in the three meter event.

John Oleyar lowered his 200-yard breaststroke record to 2:34.15, but still could not win the event as Bucknell's Charles Petzold led the field at 2:26.67.

State missed setting the school 400-yard medley relay record when the team was disqualified. The time turned in was 4:17.86, two seconds under the record, but can not be counted.

Besides the 200 free, three meter dive, Bucknell set pool records in the 400 medley relay and the 50-yard freestyle.

Generally, the Lion swimmers were slower than they were against Pitt. This may have been the result of only four days rest between meets. The plan is to be back in shape for Johns Hopkins when its team visits the Natatorium on Monday.
