Lambert Trophy Found in Beaver Hall

THE LAMBERT Trophy was presented to Penn State for the fifth time following the 1967 football season. Campus patrol retrieved the 3-foot trophy last night from a cardboard box in Beaver Hall.

Campus Patrol Finds Trophy Safe in Box, Dismantled

By PAUL LEVINE
Collegian Sports Editor

Campus patrolmen last night recovered the Lambert Trophy—the University's treasure of the 1967 football season.

Responding to an anonymous telephone call at 10:40 p.m., patrolmen rushed to Beaver Hall where they found the trophy in an exit. According to University officials, the gold-plated symbol of Eastern football supremacy is undamaged although partially dismantled.

It was discovered in a cardboard box along with a note that described the incident as a "prank." The note also said that the prank was designed to show that anything as valuable as the Lambert Trophy should be kept in a safer place.

Shortly after the call to Campus Patrol, Len Stuart, a disc jockey at radio station WMAJ, received a tip from an unidentified caller. Stuart was told that the whole affair was a prank, and that it was carried out by two persons.

The trophy, which had been on display in a glass-enclosed case on the first floor of the Hetzel Union Building, was apparently taken late Thursday night.

The theft was discovered early yesterday morning through an anonymous phone call to another WMAJ disc jockey, Paul Nichols. At 2:30 a.m., Nichols said, a male voice told him that the Lambert Trophy had been stolen. He immediately called Campus Patrol.

Campus Patrolmen found that the lock to the HUB showcase had been broken, and fastening screws had been taken out. State Police were summoned.

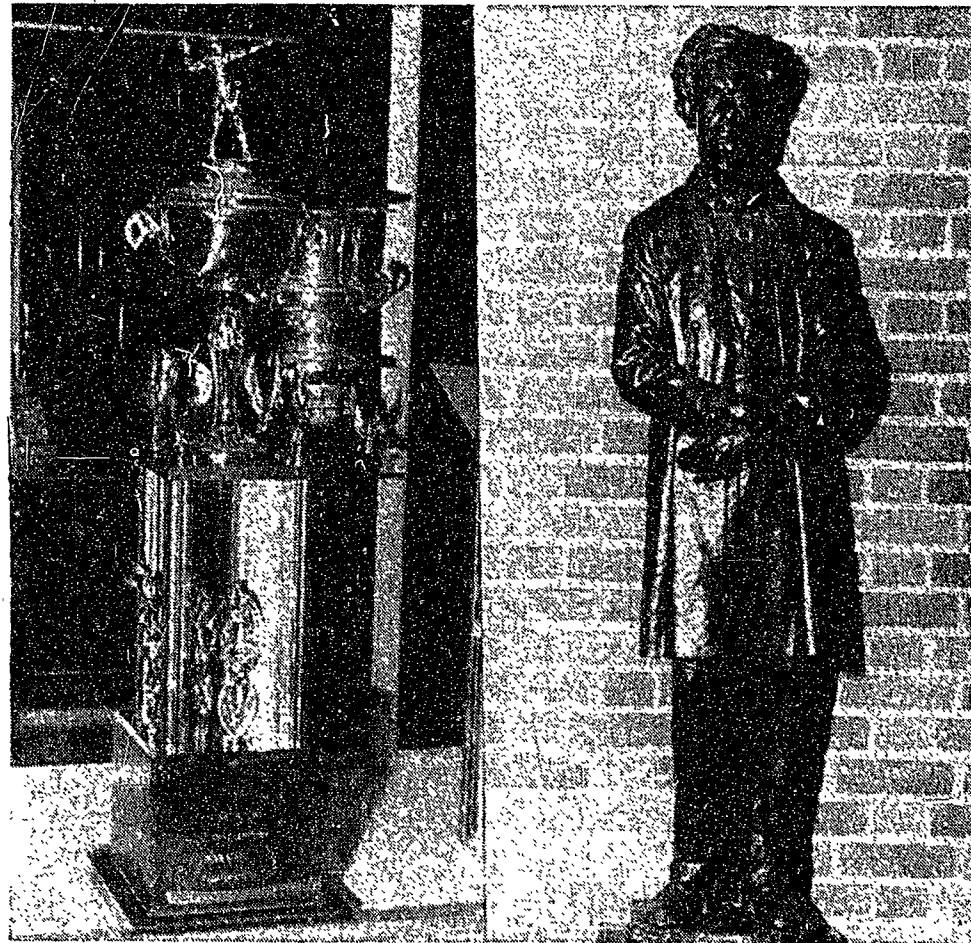

At about 3 a.m., Nichols received another telephone message. A caller claimed that the trophy was stolen "because of a lack of school spirit," and said that it would be returned undamaged.

Locked as Usual

The HUB doors were locked at 11:10 Thursday night as usual, according to Campus Patrol. Patrolmen found no evidence of forcible entry, and concluded that the thief or thieves must have hidden inside the building until everyone had left for the night.

The trophy is presented each year to the outstanding eastern collegiate football team. Last year's award was Penn State's fifth.

The trophy is a 3-foot high representation of a football player standing on a football. It was awarded to Penn State following the Lions' 8-2 record last season.

THE BRONZE likeness of Abraham Lincoln stood a mere 20 feet away, but thieves were not intimidated by Honest Abe. Breaking into the trophy case in the HUB late Thursday night, they stole the Lambert Trophy, but left the Gator Bowl Trophy (shown above) behind.

Bell Office Claims No Wiretapping

By BILL STREIN
Collegian Staff Writer

Is there any truth to the rumors that students' telephones have been wiretapped? The answer is an unqualified "no," according to James C. Walck, commercial manager of the State College office of Bell Telephone Co.

Walck said yesterday that it is strictly illegal for anyone, including officers of the federal, state or local government, to wiretap a telephone.

He defined wiretapping as "attaching some foreign device to a telephone line for the purpose of obtaining information to be used against the persons making the call. 'If the F.B.I. came in here and asked us to wiretap a phone, we would have to say, 'we're sorry, but that is illegal.'"

Bell Telephone does offer an observation service which is used by large corporations to monitor their own calls. Walck pointed out that evidence obtained through this service cannot be used to prosecute or dismiss an unfaithful employee.

Since it regards the University as the sole customer of all campus telephones, the company is obligated to the University rather than to the individual student. For this reason, Walck said, Bell would install an observation service if the University requested it; but, he added, "I can guarantee that the University does not have this service."

Walck pointed out that many persons suspect that their lines have been tapped because they hear buzzing or clicking noises on the line. These noises, however, are due to interference from heavily-loaded equipment in the central office.

If the line were tapped the person would "probably notice a substantial decrease in volume," Walck said.

He admitted that there is a possibility, although very small, that someone could tap a line without the telephone company's knowledge or consent.

There are two places where this could occur—at the Telephone Building (located in back of Boucke) which is the central office for all phones on the University exchange and in the residence halls.

The connection points in the residence halls are generally located in the corridors, making it almost impossible for anyone to use them without being detected. According to Walck, these connection points are supposed to be locked to prevent anyone from tampering with them; it is the University's responsibility to see that they are secure.

Walck said that the possibility of wiretapping in the central office is very remote. The building is manned from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. by telephone company employees.

If anyone tampered with the equipment at any other time, Walck said that maintenance men would notice it immediately.

Talks Set on Peru, Genetics, Computers

There's something for everyone among the lectures, colloquiums, forums and plain talks scheduled this week. All are free and open to the public.

Ari A. Hogenboom, professor of history, will discuss the American Civil War with international students Monday.

The lecture is one of a series sponsored by the Office of International Student Affairs to supplement the international student's knowledge of the English language and American culture.

The programs are held at 7:30 p.m. each Monday in 173 Willard.

Israel Information Week will open at 7:30 p.m. Monday with a film at the Wesley Foundation.

Maurice A. Mook, professor of anthropology, will speak on and show slides of Peru at 8 p.m. Monday in the main lounge of Simmons Hall. The talk, sponsored by Simmons' Spanish House, will be in English.

'Creative Edge'

The "Creative Edge" series will present Rustom Roy, director of the Materials Research Laboratory, in discussion of "Materials Research: The Material Difference" at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Memorial Lounge of the Helen Eakin Eisenhower Chapel. The series offers interdisciplinary discussion of knowledge and human values. It is sponsored by the faculty committee of United Campus Ministry and the Office of Religious Affairs.

The Society of the Sigma Xi will present a lecture on genetic control in man by James E. Wright Jr., professor of genetics at 8 p.m. Wednesday in 111 Boucke.

The Department of Architectural Engineering will sponsor a seminar on a new computer programming system at 1:30 p.m. Monday in 132 Engineering East.

Members of the architectural engineering staff will discuss "a programming system for the generation and use of Problem-Oriented languages," originally developed at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Vance Myers, chief of the U.S. Weather Bureau's Hydro-Meteorological Branch will speak on "Probable Maximum Precipitation and its Application to the Design of Spillways" at 12:30 p.m. Thursday in Dining Room "A" of the Hetzel Union Building.

Oakley Crawford, assistant professor of chemistry, will conduct a chemistry colloquium on "Electron Collision Frequencies in Polar Gases" at 12:45 p.m. Thursday in 310 Whitmore Laboratory.

"Current Problems of Antibody Biosynthesis," fourth topic in the University's Biological Science Lecture Series program, will be discussed by Julian Fleischman, assistant professor at the Washington University School of Medicine, at 4 p.m. Thursday in 105 Forum.

Turn On, Drop Out

The "turned on" and the "dropped out" will be David Gottlieb's topic when he speaks at the Human Development Graduate Student Organization's meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in 209 Human Development. Gottlieb, former assistant director of the Job Corps, is now professor of human development.

Washington Official Release New Information on Pueblo

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials reported last night that numerous shots were fired across the USS Pueblo's bow before she was halted and boarded by North Koreans.

The officials said the shots were fired while Comdr. Lloyd M. Bucher maneuvered the lightly armed Pueblo in evasive action.

The U.S. officials said that according to the account of the action as now reconstructed from various types of intelligence, there were eight MIG jet fighters over the Pueblo at the time it was seized, although only two of which were seen by the crew.

Another 75 North Korean aircraft were on alert at nearby Wonsan, it was stated.

This information, the source of which was not given, was at variance with previous official accounts of the Jan. 23 seizure of the U.S. intelligence-gathering ship.

President Johnson dispatched troubleshooter Cyrus R. Vance to Seoul, Korea, last night to talk with President Chung Hee Park about the "grave threat" of North Korean hostile acts.

Vance, former deputy secretary of defense, is leaving by special plane, accompanied by State and Defense Department officials, the White House said.

The Pueblo and 82 surviving members of her 83-man crew now are being held by the North Koreans, who charged the vessel was captured while intruding into North Korea's territorial waters.

Government officials previously had said there was no specific reference to any gunfire in messages from the Pueblo during the encounter.

It was disclosed also last night that a continuing search of records has yielded a Jan. 20 radio message from the Pueblo showing it was then in international waters.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said last Sunday that the Pueblo observed radio silence from Jan. 16 until Jan.

21, two days before her capture. This was to avoid detection while operating off North Korea.

The Jan. 20 message was described as a routine transmission reporting a couple of fishing boats off the ship's bow. The Pentagon said the Pueblo operated without radar surveillance of any kind for 12 days prior to her capture. She was under orders, U.S. officials said, not to enter North Korea's territorial waters.

In response to questions, the Pentagon reported that no U.S. vessels were assigned to track by radar the Pueblo's movements between Jan. 10 and 11 to keep a record of her locations.

Because the ship was out of touch then, the United States cannot state positively it never crossed into North Korea's 12-mile limit. The Pentagon's earlier position was the Pueblo at no time intruded in North Korean waters.

Some congressmen have openly wondered whether the United States had in fact kept tabs on the Pueblo by radar surveillance from a distant ship, and thus knew exactly where she had been.

Several gaps still remain in the overall story of the Pueblo but a general picture is now available in an Associated Press compilation of some of the answers—and nonanswers—provided piecemeal by the defense department in recent days.

Q. Has it been clearly established that the Pueblo was in international waters at all times?

A. At no time did the Pueblo violate territorial waters.

Q. Was the Pueblo at any time in North Korean waters by U.S. definition, 3 miles, or theirs, 12 miles?

A. No. Q. Were any vessels, submarines or aircraft of the Soviet Union in the vicinity of the Pueblo in the 24 hours preceding the incident?

A. No comment. Q. Did the Pueblo call for help from Air Force or Navy planes when accosted?

A. Pueblo requested aid at time of boarding. There was no request for assistance before this.

Q. Does the first part of this incident—that is, the appearance of North Korean patrols near our surveillance ships—occur so often that it is not standard operating procedure for F4 Phantoms and F105 fighter-bombers to be scrambled to the site every time it happens?

A. True, that is not SOP.

Student Recovering From Meningitis

The University student confined in Centre County Hospital with meningitis said yesterday that he is "feeling great."

Jeffrey Dowdell (5th-engineering-York), in the hospital since Sunday night, said that he hopes to be out of bed within a week.

Dowdell, a member of Sigma Pi fraternity, was taken to Ritenour Health Center last Saturday. He appeared to have a bad case of the flu, according to his fraternal brothers.

When his condition became worse, Ritenour doctors diagnosed the illness as meningitis. Dowdell was then transferred to Centre County Hospital.

Meningitis is considered moderately contagious. It is an inflammation of the three membranes surrounding the brain and spinal cord.

Members of Sigma Pi and other persons who had close contact with Dowdell have been given sulfa drugs as a precautionary measure.

Debate Tickets Gone

All tickets for the "Symposium on World Affairs" between Sen. Hugh Scott and Sen. Joseph S. Clark tomorrow night have been distributed. Artist Series officials announced late yesterday. Since the demand has been steady but not spectacular, there are no plans for moving the program to Recreation Hall. It will be held at 8:30 p.m. in Schwab as scheduled.

A coffee hour and question-answer period will be held in the main lounge of the Hetzel Union Building after the senators' discussion.

News from the World, Nation & State

Wilson Asks For U.S. Restraint In Vietnam

LONDON — Behind Prime Minister Harold Wilson's plea for American restraint in Vietnam is his belief that Russian leaders are reappraising President Johnson's approach to peace talks.

Informed diplomats reported last night Wilson formed that impression after hours of intensive discussions with Premier Alexi N. Kosygin and other high Soviet officials in Moscow last month on ways to end the war.

If the Russians are indeed taking a second look at Johnson's "San Antonio formula," any progress would be the main outcome of Wilson's mission. The President proposed in San Antonio, Tex., last September that Americans would quit bombing North Vietnam, given an assurance that productive peace talks follow promptly.

Kosygin asked Wilson if he could guarantee that the Americans would not resume bombing if peace talks became snarled. Wilson replied he could give no such guarantee and stressed he had no authority to speak for the Americans. Kosygin then made clear he could not speak for Hanoi.

Thieu To Bolster South Vietnamese Army

SAIGON — While troops battled yesterday against Viet Cong holed up in Saigon, President Nguyen Van Thieu decreed quick bolstering of South Vietnam's armed forces. He forecast Communist offensive designs would persist through 1968.

Carnage and fires still stained Saigon and street fighting picked up again in Hue in the 11th day of the struggle set off across the country by the Viet Cong's lunar new year drive, which Thieu and American authorities had once declared crushed.

Emphasizing the threat of four or five North Vietnamese divisions to allied forces below the demilitarized zone was the appearance of four enemy tanks and a column of 20 other vehicles in the mountains a few miles southwest of the U.S. Marine stronghold at Khe Sanh.

The U.S. Command said jet planes disabled two of the tanks Thursday and destroyed some of the trucks. The North Vietnamese used tanks for the first time in the war Wednesday in overrunning the Lang Vei Special Forces camp west of Khe Sanh. Allied authorities said seven of these armored vehicles, of Russian make, were destroyed in the fight.

Cubans Hijack Boat, Force It to Guantanamo

WASHINGTON — A small group of Cubans hijacked a Cuban ferryboat at knife-point and forced it to go to the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo, sources said yesterday. It was reported three Cuban men and an 11-year-old boy were in the group that got off at the U.S. naval base on the eastern end of Cuba, then allowed the ferryboat to go its way.

The Defense Department has said nothing about this incident, which occurred last week.

More significantly, perhaps, the Cuban government has made no public protest.

In the past, Fidel Castro has usually leaped at even small incidents to accuse the United States of provocations and to demand U.S. evacuation of the base.

Few details of the latest incident are available but it is understood to have involved a ferryboat carrying Cubans between two small towns not far from the base.

There are several hundred Cubans living on Guantanamo by choice. Because of treaty requirements that the United States turn over any "criminals" who enter the U.S. base, American authorities have sought to avoid any official statements acknowledging that refugees from Castro's Communist Cuba are there.

Some refugees have been taken out of Guantanamo by U.S. authorities and resettled in the United States.

Civil Unrest Continues in South Carolina

ORANGEBURG, S.C. — Gov. Robert McNair put this college town under a night-time curfew yesterday and said Black Power advocates sparked violence in which three Negro students were shot to death.

McNair declared a state of emergency in Orangeburg after the three were killed and 37 other persons were injured during a brief exchange of gunfire with police Thursday night. It was the fourth night of violence on adjoining South Carolina State College and Claflin College campuses.

President Johnson and Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark were asked by the state chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to send National Guardsmen from "neutral areas outside of South Carolina."

In a telegram, the organization said out-of-state guardsmen were needed "to guarantee safety of Negro citizens and students."

The outburst of shooting started Thursday night when state troopers and National Guardsmen attempted to push students back onto a campus to douse fires they had started.

ConCon Acts on Proposal To Raise Debt Limit

HARRISBURG — A proposed revision to the constitution raising the $1 million state debt limit was submitted for drafting yesterday by the Constitutional Convention.

The action, approved by a unanimous vote, virtually assured the proposal being placed on the April 23 primary election ballot, although the convention must pass on the issue once more.

Under the proposal, the General Assembly would be empowered to borrow up to 1.75 times the average annual amount of tax receipts for five years in order to finance capital spending.

The immediate effect would be to raise the legislature's borrowing authority to $2.3 billion. Any amount in excess of that would need the approval of the voters.

The convention took up the issue of real estate tax exemptions amid reports that a score or more delegates were unhappy with the proposal of the Taxation and State Finance Committee.

Letters to the Editor

Whose Ivory Tower?

TO THE EDITOR: In response to Jo-Ann Fuchs' letter questioning Dr. Walker's professional status, I would like to raise two short questions.

First, is Miss Fuchs in a more qualified position than our business leaders of such companies as Armstrong, Cork Company to assess Dr. Walker's ability?

Second, can Miss Fuchs substantiate her claim of a "coalition of business and education" by simply citing the fact that one man on a Board of Directors, comprised of eight or ten men, is associated with education?

Miss Fuchs might do well to peer down from her idealistic heights, and inspect the world of reality with greater depth.

Over There and Up Here

TO THE EDITOR: Glancing at last Friday's newspapers afforded one both interesting insight and tragic comparison.

The New York Times carried on its front page the truly extraordinary photograph of South Vietnamese Police Chief Loan holding a loaded pistol to the temple of "Viet Cong suspect" seconds before the latter's execution. Since it was performed without benefit of trial and on the street, it seems that miscarriages of justice still occur under the "duly elected democratic government" of Thieu and Ky.

I won't be so obnoxious as to explain why such an event is repugnant to everything the U.S. claims to defend in Vietnam, but I would rather draw attention to The Daily Collegian's editorial appearing that same morning. After being duly warned of the perils of electoral apathy in the AWS balloting, the editorial writer listed the achievements of AWS to date, but withheld unconditional praise for the organization because it hadn't dealt with the "bigger issues affecting the Penn State woman," these being off-campus housing and the Pill.

I wonder how an editorial writer on a university newspaper could put down such photography as appeared in the Times and take up his pen to decry the lack of off-campus housing and contraceptives.

I am aware that the editorial was written before the picture was taken: so much more profound the tragic irony. A man charged, tried, convicted and executed in the time it takes to cock a gun; a vision that would stun and silence any man, while the inability to obtain contraceptives and the "slavery" of dorm residence excites such a verbal sally.

Two news items on a dismal Friday morning.

A proposal for a tuition hike added a dose of political flavor to the usual routine of campus events last week.

Gov. Raymond P. Shafer said a $100 increase in annual tuition at state universities and colleges will be necessary to meet the demands of expanding enrollments and new programs. University President Eric A. Walker said he was "studying carefully" Shafer's recommendations "to see what adjustments will be required."

The Undergraduate Student Government, meanwhile, sent a telegram to Shafer protesting the tuition increase. USG President Jeff Long said he plans other protest actions later.

Earlier in the week, USG staged its first ORGY (Organization Revising Government for You) session in West Halls. ORGY opened with discussion on narcotics agents and wiretapping on campus. USG plans more ORGY programs during the coming weeks when according to Clark Arrington, a USG spokesman, discussion will be as "free flowing and informal as possible in which fellow Penn Staters can get down to the nitty gritty."

Both the Association of Women Students and USG said last week they will study the "textbook problem" here. AWS plans to look into downtown book prices while USG is urging the establishment of a University book store, a long running USG proposal.

While most student groups were grappling with practical issues last week, the University Senate delved into the theory behind the right of students to grapple with issues in the first place. A statement on student rights and responsibilities from the American Association of University Professors was referred to the Senate for study.

The statement asked universities to protect the rights of students to non-violent and non-disruptive demonstrations and cautioned against demonstrations that infringe on the right of expression by others.

Charles L. Lewis, vice president for student affairs, said the administration was studying the statement "with great interest" as to its applicability to the University.

The past rumors of a full scale crackdown on students using drugs seemed to quiet down with Old Main's denial that the University is taking part in any kind of "superbust" on campus.

Other police action included sentencing of Frederick Robbins on charges arising from the fatal shooting of Charles F. Miller, a University student. Miller was murdered last September. Robbins received a two and a half to five year prison sentence. Meanwhile, Alphonso Westinghouse Kyles, also implicated in the crime, is still fighting extradition to Pennsylvania from Maryland.

Possible legal action may also be taken against brothers and pledges of Delta Tau Delta fraternity for damage to house property last weekend. The house was closed two weeks ago by the fraternity's national office.

Prepare Now!

The Penn State Jazz Club is a student organization, dedicated to the appreciation of jazz. The jazz club is a non-profit organization, the money made on concerts is used to finance other concerts and pay the incurred expenses of the club.

This is the beginning of a weekly newsletter sponsored by the Penn State Jazz Club for the purpose of informing interested students and jazz club members of the "jazz world" and the activities of the jazz club.

The jazz club meets every Sunday evening at 8:30 in Room 218 HUB. The meetings are open to every jazz club member and to any interested students. More student participation in the meetings would be welcomed.

A jazz workshop will be held in the near future. Anyone who is interested should attend the next meeting. No previous knowledge of jazz is required for attendance to the workshop. A workshop is an exchange of ideas and a great opportunity for musicians to experiment with different techniques and styles.

The Charles Lloyd Quartet has been booked for a concert in April. An Avant Garde jazz festival for the spring term is being considered. Student response for or against this festival would be appreciated.

"Want a company where you can really put your education to work? See IBM Feb. 26th or 27th"

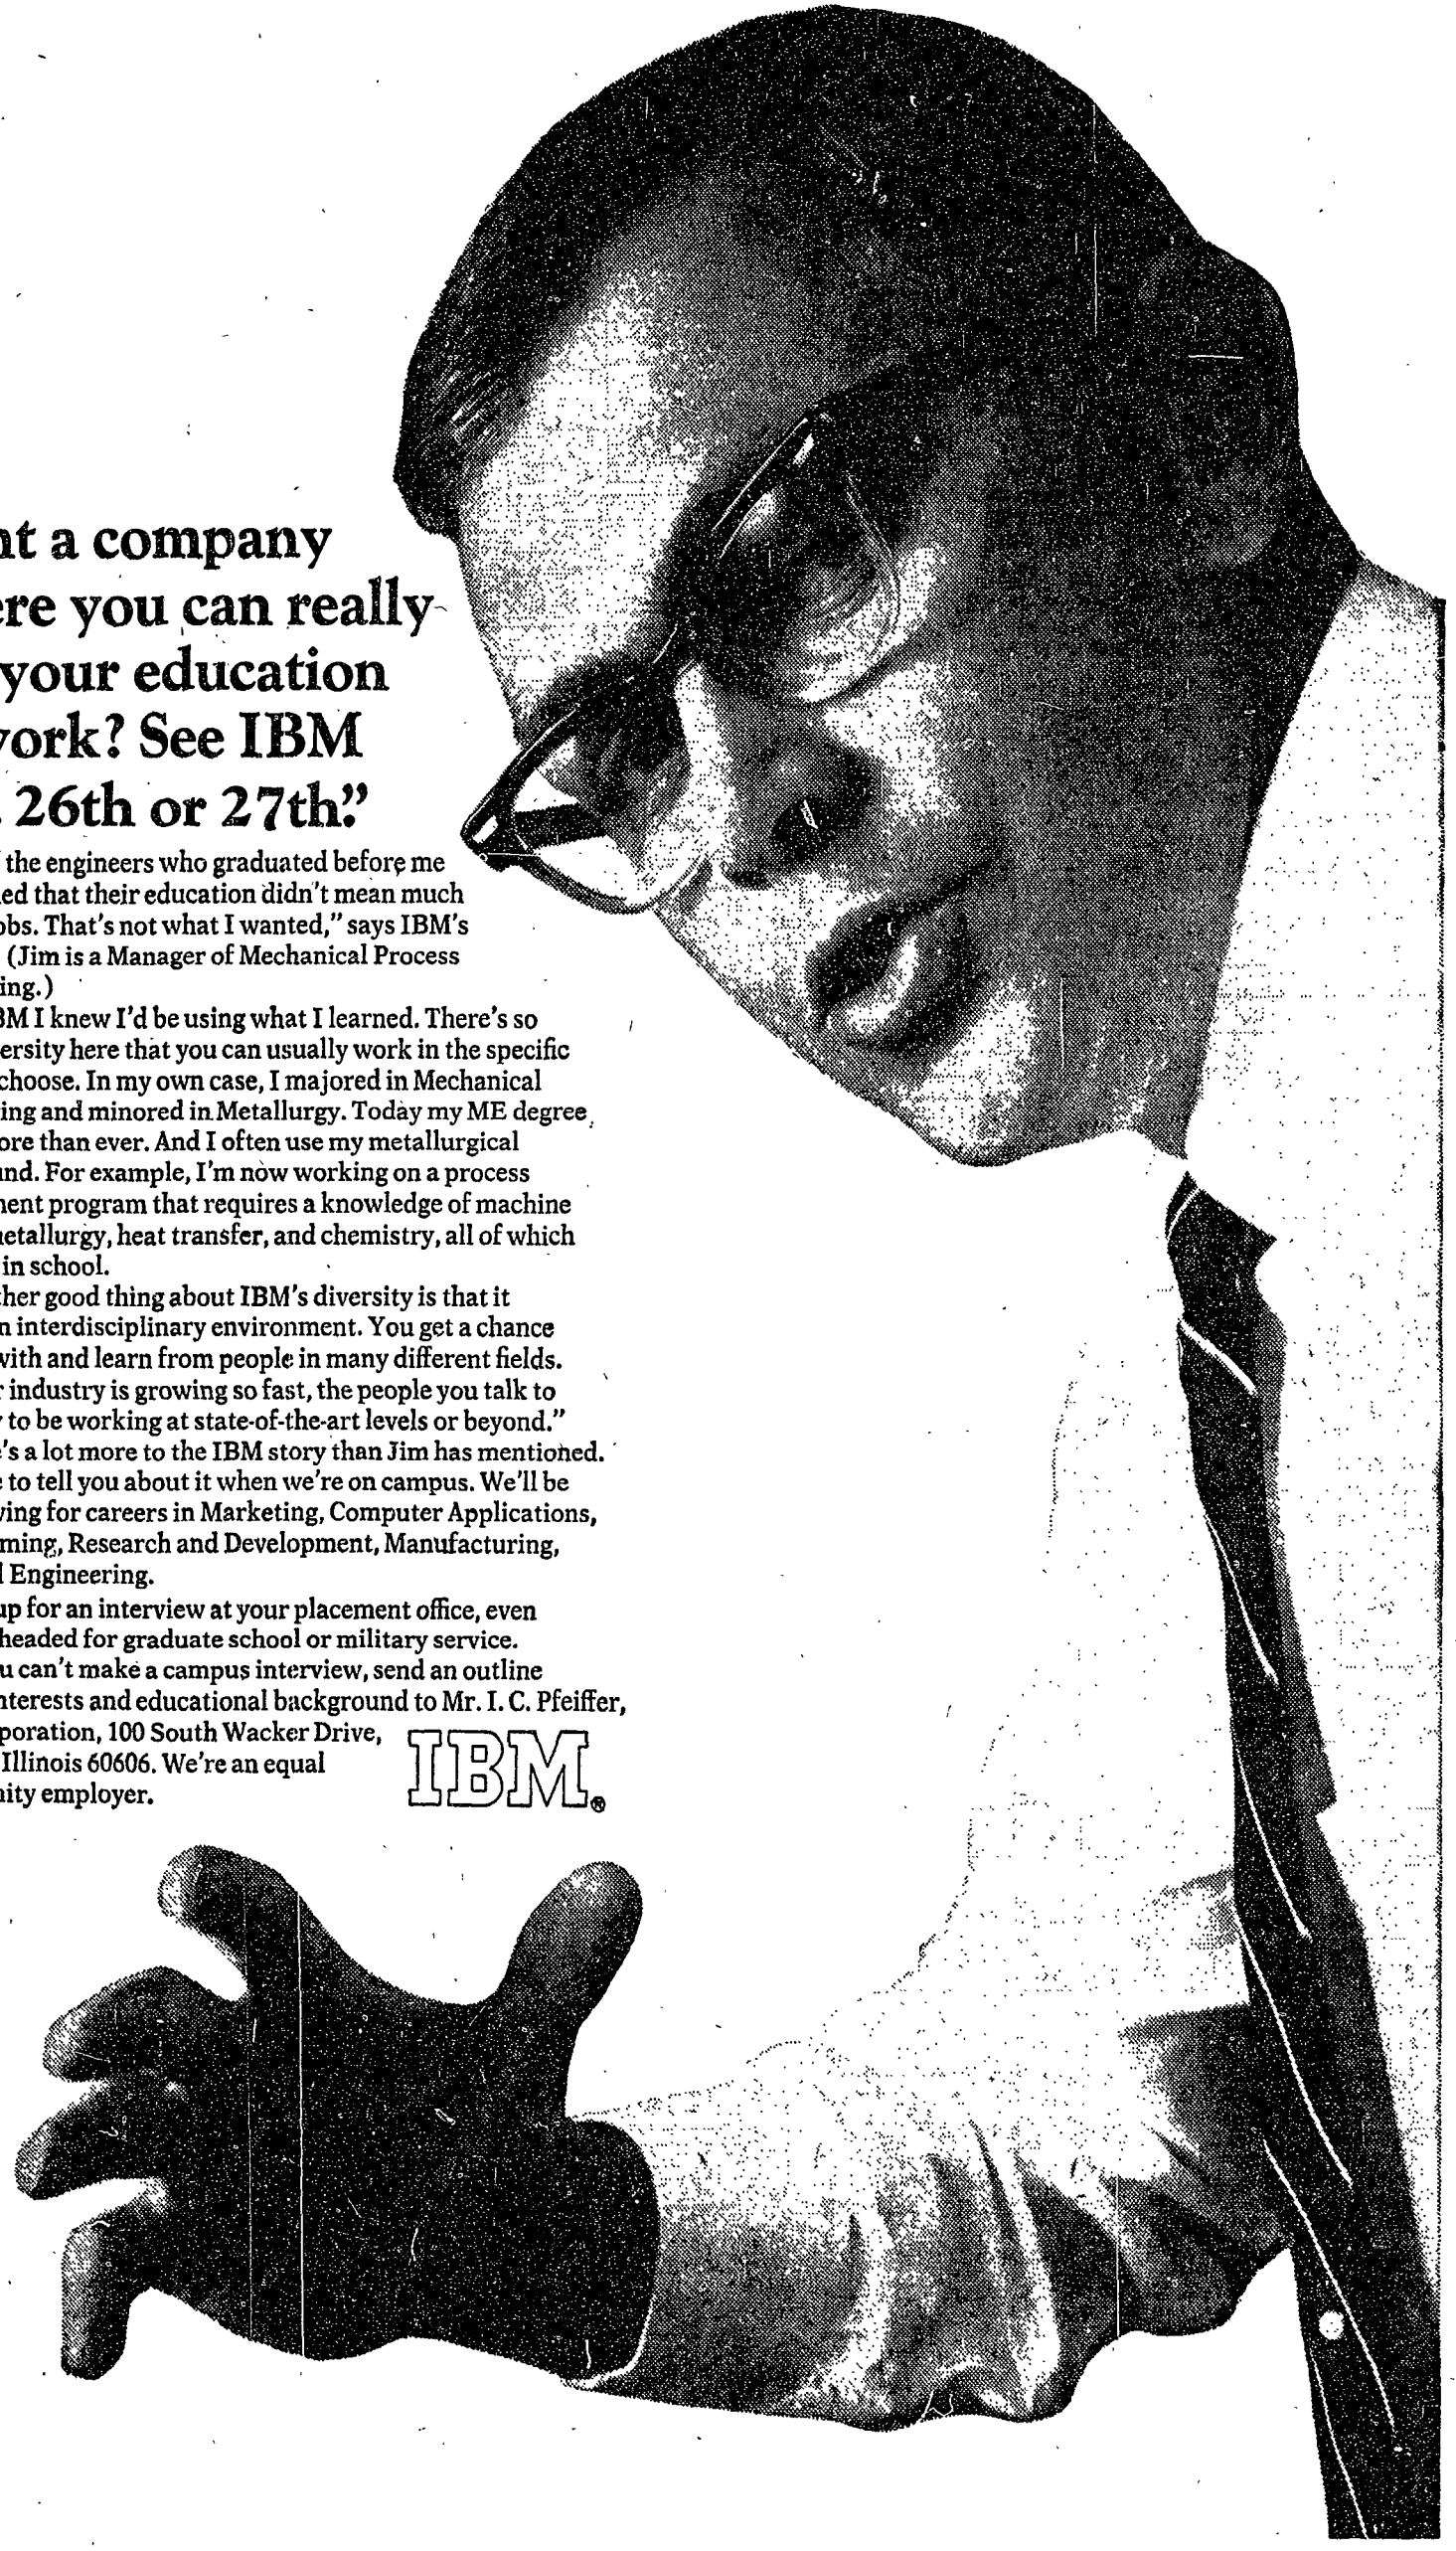

"Some of the engineers who graduated before me complained that their education didn't mean much in their jobs. That's not what I wanted," says IBM's Jim Carr. (Jim is a Manager of Mechanical Process Engineering.)

"At IBM I knew I'd be using what I learned. There's so much diversity here that you can usually work in the specific area you choose. In my own case, I majored in Mechanical Engineering and minored in Metallurgy. Today my ME degree means more than ever. And I often use my metallurgical background. For example, I'm now working on a process development program that requires a knowledge of machine design, metallurgy, heat transfer, and chemistry, all of which I studied in school.

"Another good thing about IBM's diversity is that it creates an interdisciplinary environment. You get a chance to work with and learn from people in many different fields. Since our industry is growing so fast, the people you talk to are likely to be working at state-of-the-art levels or beyond."

There's a lot more to the IBM story than Jim has mentioned. We'd like to tell you about it when we're on campus. We'll be interviewing for careers in Marketing, Computer Applications, Programming, Research and Development, Manufacturing, and Field Engineering.

Sign up for an interview at your placement office, even if you're headed for graduate school or military service. And if you can't make a campus interview, send an outline of your interests and educational background to Mr. I. C. Pfeiffer, IBM Corporation, 100 South Wacker Drive, Chicago, Illinois 60606. We're an equal opportunity employer.

Wrestlers Face Weak Syracuse

By STEVE SOLOMON
Collegian Sports Writer

Wrestling will return to Rec Hall tonight at 8 when Penn State will attempt to extend its 45-year domination over Syracuse. During that period, the Lions have overwhelmed the Orangemen by a 34-6-2 margin.

In its last home appearance three weeks ago, State romped over Cornell in its easiest meet of the year, 30-6. In the interim, the Lions have upped their record to 4-1 with a road sweep over Temple, 22-14, and Maryland, 18-11. Tonight's meet figures to be no more than an exhibition for the Lions, a breather before next week's crucial showdown with unbeaten Navy. Syracuse has won only one contest this season, an unimpressive 21-13 victory over have been crushed by Lehigh (31-2), Temple (29-7), Navy (30-9), Springfield (24-9), and last week, Army (30-9).

Syracuse has been hampered by injuries all year. Last week they forfeited the 130 and 137-pound matches to Army because of a pair of knee injuries. Coach Ed Carlin indicated that Tom Trusilo, his 137-pounder, has not fully recovered and will be sidelined tonight.

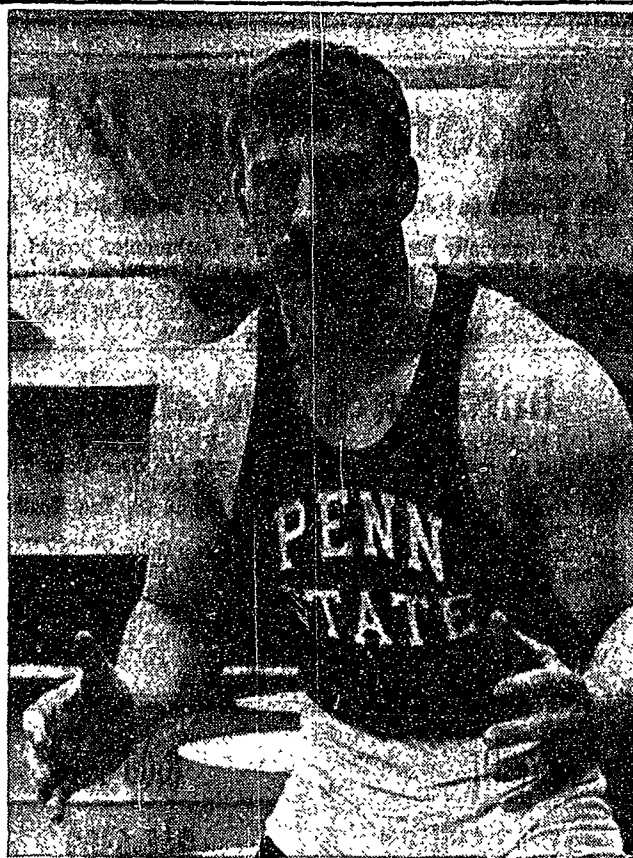

Only Three Winners

The remainder of the visitor's lineup shows only three winning records, all in the upper weight classes. Bob Rust, a footballer who wrestles at 177, has three wins and two draws in five bouts and last week drew with 1967 Eastern titlist Jim Harter of Navy. Bob Funk, also undefeated (3-0) after being shelved a month ago with a strained knee, will provide the opposition. Funk has posted two decisions since his return to the State lineup.

At 191, the Orangemen boast Lee Castner, who carries a 3-2 record into tonight's bout. But Castner will undoubtedly face his stiffest assignment this season in Lion wrestling, Captain Rich Lorenzo, who is undefeated (4-0), paces the State matmen with three falls and 18 tie points.

The Penn State lineup will remain identical to the one which beat Maryland last week for the 15th time in the last 18 years. Sophomore Tom Edwards, who was pinned in his varsity bout last week, will be on display before the home fans for the first time.

Bob Abraham and Larry Holtackers will be out to end losing skids which began two weeks ago. Abraham, at 152, is 2-3 on the season and will face Eric Greenberg (1-1-2). Heavyweight Holtackers is 2-2 and will have to be at his best against Jerry Beach to keep his record above water.

LARRY HOLTACKERS
... wants third win

Fencers Seek Number Four

Hoping for its fourth straight win, Penn State's fencing squad motored to the University of Buffalo yesterday for a 1 p.m. duel with the highly-touted Bulls.

With a two-win weekend under their belts, Dick Klima's fencers will be in pursuit of their fourth win of this season, doubling last season's two-victory output. Despite the fact that the Bulls have unseated Cornell, a team which State has yet to defeat, Klima believes his fencers will have an edge going into today's match. The edge is mental says Klima, adding, "The spirit and attitude on this team is tremendous."

In tomorrow's match two undefeated epee teams will fight it out, and according to Klima this one should go 5-4. If Klima is correct about the mental edge, State's three epeeists—Joel Goza, Tim Doering and Rick Wright—should come out on top.

The Bulls also field a strong foil team, one which is rated stronger than the Syracuse foilers, who defeated the Nittanies last Saturday, 5-3. However, the Lions rebounded with an impressive 7-2 victory over Johns Hopkins Monday, and prospects seem brighter for a good showing against Buffalo.

If the other weapons are as close as predicted, sabre will probably determine the outcome of the match. Harry Hill returns to the starting line, with Jerry Clausen and Andy Wineman, in place of Tullio Gatti, who will make the trip as a substitute. If Hill can repeat the three-win performance he turned in against Brooklyn College, prospects for a State upset are brightened even more.

State's foilers this afternoon will be regulars Jon Schmid and Chuck Kegley, with sophomore John Griffiths making his second varsity start. Jim Huber, the team's top foiler last season as a soph, will make the trip as a substitute.

Following this afternoon's match at Buffalo, the State fencers head into the toughest two weeks on their schedule as they face C.C.N.Y. and Navy, two top-ranked fencing powers State has yet to face.

Kindon To Go All Seven

Gymnasts vs. Orange

By DAVID NEVINS

Collegian Sports Writer
Today's gymnastics meet scheduled for 2:30 at Rec Hall will match State's undefeated national gymnastic power-house against a pitifully weak Syracuse squad. The mismatch appears as on-sided as the famous classical battle between David and Goliath. Unfortunately for Syracuse, slingshots will not be a part of its equipment at the meet, and an upset in the Biblical tradition is not likely.

While the Lions (4-0) have more depth than just about any squad in the nation, the Orange (3-3) have trouble finding even one or two men capable enough to perform certain events.

Can's Meet Standard
A team is allowed to enter four men in each of the seven apparatus, but Syracuse does not have enough depth to meet this standard. Their probable starting lineup lists only three entries in all the events except the long horse vault, where they managed to find four performers.

Ole Syracuse gymnast who is expected to do well is Dennis Engil. Engil will see action in the free exercise, long horse, and trampoline. He is an excellent performer in all three, especially the long horse where he finished in the top ten nationally last season.

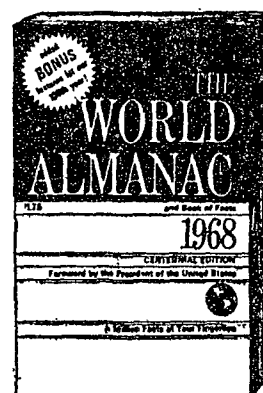

State's lineup will probably be similar to the one that will be used next week against Temple, except that John Kindon will go all-around this week instead of Bob Emery. Kindon will also be performing on the trampoline, in addition to the six olympic events. The Aerospace Engineering student hit 51.45 in the all-around earlier in the season against Army and is expected to better this score. Today he could total as many as 60 points since he is also working on the trampoline. Incidentally, this is about half the total expected from the entire Syracuse squad.

Ed Bayuk, a junior transfer student from Syracuse, will be working the free exercise for the first time since coming to State. One reason the promising junior transferred was due to the lack of emphasis given the sport at Syracuse. People know or care as little about gymnastics at Syracuse as Lion fans care about Jai-alai.

Daily Collegian Local Ski Report

Heavy snow squalls last night put central Pennsylvania ski areas into better shape than they have been in for several weeks. Black Moshannon has been closed this week. Blue Knob, however, has been making snow all week and should provide the best skiing in the area. Temperatures will be between zero and ten with strong winds, so dress accordingly.

Lions Face Navy

The Penn State basketball team will be trying to win its eighth game of the season and third in a row this afternoon when it meets the Midshipmen of Navy in Annapolis. State (7-7) is led by captain Jeff Persson, who has 999 career points and should pass the 1,000 mark today. Navy junior John Toimie (above) leads the Midshipmen (7-9) in scoring this season.

Canoe Slalom Tomorrow

The Penn State Outing Club will hold its third annual pool slalom tomorrow at 12:30 p.m. in the Natatorium pools.

The event will feature canoes being paddled through a prescribed course set out by poles hung over the water. Each entrant's score is the sum of his time in seconds and his penalties for hitting the poles or taking gates incorrectly.

Swimming Team Away For Meet at Syracuse

By DICK ZELLER
Collegian Sports Writer

Penn State's varsity swimmers are on their second journey outside the confines of the Natatorium today with a meet at Syracuse.

The Lions will be in the familiar position of underdogs, and again winning an event will be considered a major accomplishment.

Mehner Again

The most likely to put a win on the Lion side is Erich Mehner. The sophomore freestyler currently leads the team in the 200, 500 and 1,000-yard freestyle events. With his great improvement over the last few weeks, Mehner can be counted on to set at least one school record per meet.

John Oleyar is the other hope in the individual events for a few points for the struggling Lions. His breaststroke times have enabled him to lead the team but have not been enough to win in many meets.

Third in Row?

The 400-yard freestyle relay team will be looking for its third win in a row. The four of Gene Weber, Jeff Pearson, Jim Conrad and Dennis Burkett has cut its pool and school record to under 3:40.

By far the most respectable of the timed swimmers, the relay team has bettered all competition at the Natatorium. It's not going to bring any lasting fame to any of the four swimmers, since the mark will probably be lowered repeatedly over the next few years. A truly competitive time on the national level would be around 3:15.

Many improvements should be forthcoming in the Syracuse meet. The divers, Bob Liken and Ron Manning, will try to break their string of regressions which have not given any thrills to spectators at the last two meets. Much potential was shown in the meets against Temple and Pitt, prompting coach Lou MacLean to predict that his divers would develop into able competitors in the not-so-distant future. Unfortunately, that future seems to be slipping farther and farther into the future. The best scores for both diving events were received by Manning against Pitt. Since then both divers have been floundering in the depths of mediocrity.

Experience is about the only positive thing to have come out of this season, as far as the swimmers themselves are concerned. This is not too likely to be changed against Syracuse. While the Orange are nowhere near the caliber of Navy or Maryland, they still provide overwhelming competition for the first-year Lion squad. Hope still remains for a few points in scattered events, but more than likely, the Nittany mermen will have to settle for school records and third places.

Still Exciting

For the spectator, however, all is not lost. Swimming, being the individual sport it is, when the right two swimmers are put against each other, an exciting race can result. In past weeks, the Lions have managed to put together numerous exciting contests, even if the times wouldn't put anyone on an all-star team.

The next chance for Penn State fans to see the squad will be Feb. 17, when the Lions play host to West Virginia in the final home event premier season.

Schuylkill, Adams Win IMs

In intramural action last night, Schuylkill House held on to defeat Chester, 27-23, in section D of the Dormitory League. The first half, spotted with several turnovers, ended with Schuylkill leading 15-11, largely due to the defense and rebounding of forward Larry Steinberg.

Chester hit a cold streak in the second half and fell behind, 20-11. They then crept up behind Schuylkill, only to fall short as time ran out.

The Schuylkill attack was paced by Jim Arnone's 12 points and 11 Missesky's 10. Chester was led by Joe Young.

with 8 points and Jack Pezdic with 6.

In an unusually high-scoring game, Adams' sharpshooters downed a spirited Bedford team, 56-41. Adams shot to a 34-18 halftime lead and coasted to the win behind Jim Lis' 20 points.

John Garhammer scored 12 and Bob Claraval 11 for hustling Adams, while Mark Fuller tallied 15 and Doug Svichan 10 for Bedford.

Killy, 3 U.S. Girls Win Medals

GRENOBLE, France (AP) — Jean-Claude Killy, France's superman on skis, triggered his drive toward an Olympic triple by winning the men's downhill yesterday after three girls brought the United States an unprecedented three medals in a speed skating race.

There were no honors, however, for the winless U.S. hockey team, which suffered its third straight defeat, this one a 10-2 dubbing by the power-laden Russians.

At the same time, there were more trips to the hospital for members of the U.S. Olympic squad as two skiers, Jim Barrows and Jere were injured in falls in the downhill.

Gaining the Games' first medals for the U.S. were,

Dianne Holum of Northbrook, Ill., Mary Meyers of St. Paul, Minn., and Jenny Fish of Strongsville, Ohio, all of whom tied for second in the women's 500-meter speed skating event.

Each zipped across the finish line in 46.3 seconds, only two-tenths of a second behind gold medalist Ludmila Titova of Russia, and received a silver medal. No bronze was awarded.
