USG Rejects Penn State-IDA Break

New USG Officers Installed Last Night

By DENNIS STIMELING
Collegian USG Reporter

Undergraduate Student Government executive officers for the 1968-1969 academic year were installed at last night's USG meeting.

James Womer, Ted Thompson and Harvey Reeder were sworn in as president, vice president and treasurer.

In Womer's inaugural speech he stressed the role of students in today's "American multiversity." Womer said "Research is becoming primary in the University. Undergraduates have to open up dialogue and start worrying about fundamental problems."

"Two-Way Street"

Womer stressed the importance of cooperation between the Administration and student government. He said, "It is the Administration's obligation to represent the best interests of the students first." He cautioned, however, that "cooperation is a two-way street," and said that students and student government must cooperate with the Administration, if the Administration is expected to cooperate with them.

Womer said that USG should strive to achieve the basic rights for University students. He said, "We do not have rights of academic freedom at Penn State."

In other USG action the three incoming class officers also assumed their offices and their seats on the Congress. Michael Kleeman, Larry Wallace and Robert Emery were sworn in as presidents of the sophomore, junior and senior classes.

Farewell Address

Jeff Long, past USG president, made his farewell address to the congress last night. Long's speech stressed the importance of unity within the Congress.

He said "Put pettiness and strife aside. You have a job to do. Set your priorities and go after them."

"Your struggles next year are not going to be with the Administration, but with the student body," Long said. "You have a responsibility to be responsible."

Rich Tobin, past USG treasurer, also made a farewell address to the Congress. Like Long, he stressed unity and perseverance in the student government.

Court Justice Appointed

The new president announced the appointment of Don Antrun as USG Supreme Court Chief Justice and Parliamentarian to replace graduating senior Dan Clements.

Clements then announced that the seniors on USG had decided to make an award to an outstanding faculty member who had assisted or been interested in USG. Clements presented the award to Champ Storch, director of Associated Student Activities.

Tobin, Long and outgoing Vice President Jon Fox received awards last night from the Congress for their "outstanding devotion to student government."

JON FOX, left, turns over the gavel to new Undergraduate Student Government President James Womer at last night's USG meeting. In his inaugural address, Womer said, "It is the Administration's obligation to represent the best interests of the students first." However, he warned that "cooperation is a two-way street."

Town Congressman Presents 1,000 Name Petition

By DAVID NESTOR
Collegian USG Reporter

The Undergraduate Student Government last night refused to demand that the University disaffiliate itself from the Institute for Defense Analyses.

A bill asking that the University make available all documents concerned with IDA, that is sever all relations with IDA and that the University no longer have any affiliation with the organization, was presented to the Congress by Terry Klasky, town congressman. The petition that accompanied the bill was signed by 1000 students, faculty members and alumni.

Klasky said his reason for introducing the resolution was, "I was presented the resolution by my constituents who I do represent, and for that reason I was obligated as a congressman to represent their ideas and at least initiate a dialogue on their point of view."

Intended "To Reveal Involvement"

Klasky said that the first part of the resolution, calling for the University to publish all knowledge in its possession about IDA, was intended "to reveal University involvement with IDA and not to reveal any secrets of confidential research. I just wanted Congress to be aware of the facts."

Klasky added, "I didn't support the second part of the bill, because I feel such action would be inappropriate at this time because Congress doesn't know the facts."

The bill was subsequently tabled and sent to a specially established committee headed by the new USG Vice President Ted Thompson.

James Creagan, one of the bill's chief supporters, said that it is important to realize where the burden of guilt lies. "We are in a state of social turmoil where people are demanding the rights to self determination. Much of the work of IDA goes counter to this. They try to control and suppress revolts."

"Kept in Dark"

Creagan said that IDA is not doing defense work exclusively. "It is involved in much highly clandestine research, and the student body is kept in the dark."

Steve Gerson, chairman of the Administrative Action Committee, presented a letter to USG President James Womer summarizing a meeting with the University Vice President for Research, E. F. Osborn. The letter stated that IDA does no research at University Park, but that some faculty members do participate in research for IDA in their spare time. The letter said, "The position of the University is that it certainly cannot control what faculty members do on their own time."

Ed Beckwith, representing Awareness through Investigation and Discussion, asked for proof that IDA is hampering the education of the undergraduate student at the University.

"Why Have It"

Alfred Di Bernardo, a graduate student in political science, said that the individual is not effected, and that since the University neither profits nor suffers, "Why have it?"

The bill was tabled when USG decided that it really did not know enough about the organization at the present time.

After the bill had been tabled, Jeffrey Polasky, a proponent of the bill, said that he wants the USG to do is, "study, get the facts, look at different sides of the issue and initiate some meaningful dialogue. James Creagan said that if the USG will not act, the students will have to act independently. "There are 1,000 angry people who are not going to wait much longer."

Harvey Reeder, USG treasurer, introduced an amendment to drop the second section of the bill dealing with the University disaffiliating from IDA. Reeder said that USG was voting to sever relations with an organization that it does not know enough about.

Sitting on Something Big

Terry Klasky, sponsor of the bill, said that the USG is sitting on something big. "We must find out what the University's role is as an educational facility."

Creagan said that the quality of this University will be enhanced if we eliminate IDA from the campus.

A spokesman against the bill said that the work of IDA is vital to the safety of the country. He said that the faculty is also entitled to academic freedom which may be impinged if this bill is passed by USG.

Creagan said that according to the fact sheet a great deal of the research done by IDA is not defensive.

Terry Klasky told the Congress in informal discussion that Creagan promised him no action would be taken until next week after the USG committee has an opportunity to study the proposal. "This is a threat, Congress, and I don't like it. But that's the way it is," Klasky told the Congress.

Liberal Arts, Education

Colleges Announce Pass-Fail Plans

By PAT GUROSKY
Collegian Administration Reporter

The Colleges of Liberal Arts and Education yesterday announced their plans for implementing the new Satisfactory-Unsatisfactory grading system.

The College of Liberal Arts will allow students to register for as many as 12 credits on a Satisfactory-Unsatisfactory basis, but not more than one course per term.

Credit taken on a S-U basis will not be acceptable toward either the basic liberal arts requirements or the minimum credit requirements in the student's major.

If a student transfers to a major in which he has earlier taken a course on a S-U basis, he will not be required to repeat the course for a letter grade, but he will be required to substitute another course in that field.

Credits for which a grade of Satisfactory is earned will count toward the 124 credits required for graduation.

No change from the S-U system to the conventional system of grading will be permitted.

College of Education

The College of Education has submitted a statement for each of its nine programs describing the manner in which it will implement the S-U grading option. Policies peculiar to individual programs are available through the department heads.

Students may exercise the S-U option for 18 credits.

Consistent with the purpose of acquainting students with new areas, students who wish to use the S-U option are encouraged to take some courses during the year on this basis (usually six credit hours). Other rules on the maximum number of credits per term or per year vary from program to program.

All programs will allow students to specify uncontrolled electives to be taken under the S-U option. Programs vary in latitude to allow students to take controlled electives on a S-U basis.

The programs vary in allowing students to take required courses in education using the S-U marking system. Several programs permit no S-U marks for their students in required education courses (Rehabilitation Education, Elementary Education, Vocational Education, Music Education, and Business Education).

The Department of Art Education excludes only student teaching from the S-U option. Special Education limits the S-U option to six credits in the major field and two to Economics Education. Secondary Education and Home Economics Education place no restrictions on the use of the S-U option for professional education courses taken by their majors.

REMEMBER THE CHARGE THEY MADE? In 1950, angry students hung "Hot Air Ray," a history professor who dared to fail a large number of students, in effigy at the Corner of College Ave. and Pugh St. Oh, how can their glory fade?

Pranks, Customs Alive in Past

By JOHN BRONSON
Collegian Staff Writer

Penn State spirit is alive and well, for students do not merely live, but they're living it up—and they've been doing it for years.

The University has a long history of student customs, pranks, protests and occasional notoriety—giving an impression of anything but apathy.

Columbia's recent disorders are nothing new here, for 1905 was a vintage year for Penn State student strikes. The first occurred in February after the history department and particularly Professor P. O. Ray had given an exam and failed many of their semester students.

Boycott Classes

The sophomores retaliated by boycotting class and hanging "Hot-Air Ray" in effigy on the corner of College Ave. and Pugh St.

Later that year the "great strike" occurred. The underlying cause was student feeling that attendance rules were too demanding. The immediate cause of conflict arose from a faculty notice forbidding students to use their allowed cuts just before and after vacations.

The rule irked students into action. They quit going to classes for 10 days.

Mass Meetings

"Daily mass meetings were held to consider overtures, air new grievances," and prevent breaks in the ranks."

Eventually the students returned to class with the promise from the college that no retaliatory action would be taken, and that students would have more ready access to the administrative officers to air complaints.

To go on strike in protest may seem a bit extreme, but back in 1897 students in Dr. Pond's chemistry course were even more aggressive in their complaints.

Shell Old Main

When he had failed many of the students on an exam, they rolled off the cannons out in front of Old Main and shelled it. Every window from the third floor on down was broken, along with all the windows in the Chemistry Building.

The administration must have considered the cannons annoying, for they were eventually filled with cement and mounted as memorials, but irate students found other ways to show their dislike for unpopular professors.

A custom which flourished from 1889 until the twenties was the "graveyard," where various professors were buried with considerable ceremony.

Memorials were erected and sarcastic epitaphs describing each professor in no uncertain terms stood as visual reminders of the students' complaints.

Devil's Telegram

One of the epitaphs was in the form of a Western Union telegram from the devil to the students. It concerned Marsh W. White—"the big eared wonder" and the text read: "To Penn State students, He burned with a black smoke and a pungent odor."

Another one of the students' favorite ways of antagonizing their professors was to drop bags of water on them from the upper floors of Old Main.

An article in the September, 1943 edition of Froth describes the bagging incidents. "There is a story about an inspection visit by the board of trustees which an alumnus said might be true but could not verify."

"As the tale goes, just as one of the trustees was entering the door, a big bag of water hit him square on the top of his silk topper."

Makes It Messy

"Another favorite trick was to combine a bottle of ink with the water bag, and perhaps a handful of sand or fine dust to make it really messy for the target."

"The bags themselves were not the kind that came with a nickel's worth of candy, but ten, twenty and twenty-five pounders. Professors were fair game, which goes to show the change in the codes then and now."

One of the best known incidents of Penn State's early days is called the "Camp Suspension" of 1889.

The whole affair revolves around "Calamity" Musser and the Johnstown flood. It seems that "Calamity" had gone home for a vacation, but did not return on time, alleging high waters as his excuse.

Since word of the flood had not yet reached the faculty, they promptly suspended him.

Class Suspended

This action upset his class and they backed him up by cutting and examination. For this act of insubordination, the entire sophomore class was suspended.

Not to be outdone by the administration, the class "marched to the field near the University Inn (now the University Club) and pitched tents, calling the encampment 'Camp Suspension.'"

"Here they remained for several days until the faculty, now realizing the truth of the flood story, reinstated the class without further ado."

News from the World, Nation & State

Paris Peace Talks Begin Today

PARIS — The top negotiators for the United States and North Vietnam arrived in Paris yesterday and insisted that serious efforts would be made to end the Vietnam war in preliminary talks opening today.

North Vietnam's special ambassador, Xuan Thuy, 55, a smiling diplomat in a gray suit, came in a Russian-built plane several hours ahead of U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman. They traveled to Paris from Hanoi by way of Peking and Moscow.

French sources said that the talks would start this afternoon. This plan was subject to approval by Harriman and Thuy. Both men are due to see French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville in separate meetings in the morning.

American Troops Defeat Enemy Attacks

SAIGON — Enemy forces hammered at sectors of Saigon yesterday, adding to the flow of civilians and the flow of refugees in an apparent effort to influence peace talks about to open in Paris.

About 2,000 troops of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division were thrown into the battle and beat off enemy attempts to break into Saigon from the south and east, an American spokesman said.

But early today the Viet Cong still clung to footholds in the flaming ruins of shell-shattered blocks along the capital's southern rim, six days after they opened their attack on Saigon.

The flow of refugees from the fighting fronts rose sharply and the food supply in Saigon sank dangerously. Food prices soared.

Soviets Nearing Polish-Czech Border

WARSAW, Poland — Rumors of Soviet troop movements near the Polish-Czech border spread in Warsaw yesterday and the movement of some Western diplomats was restricted. The Polish Communist party newspaper Trybuna Ludu aimed a blast at the "alien, anti-Socialist trend in the political life of Czechoslovakia" and demanded that it be "forcibly silenced."

Washington sources reported that Polish sources had turned back an American political officer on his way from Warsaw to the Polish-Czech border, and the British Foreign Office disclosed that two of its military attaches had been prevented from leaving Warsaw.

Informal sources in Warsaw said that military attaches on Wednesday had identified Soviet troops on the move from east to west, south of the city of Krakow. That is about 40 miles from the Czech border.

Johnson Uncertain on Tax Surcharge

WASHINGTON — Senate-House conferees adopted formally yesterday a measure to boost taxes $10 billion and cut federal spending $6 billion—thereby moving President Johnson closer to a thorny choice.

If accepted by the House and Senate, the legislation will present the President with the choice of accepting it to get the added revenue he feels the country needs or rejecting it to avoid a spending cut he has said runs counter to the national interest.

The White House gave little indication yesterday which course he will take.

Solution to Cheyney Unrest Sought

HARRISBURG — The State Board of Education adopted a resolution yesterday supporting the Department of Public Instruction in seeking solutions to problems of student unrest at Cheyney State College.

By unanimous vote, the board urged Gov. Shafer and the legislature to speedily provide the funds necessary to remedy deficiencies immediately.

The resolution did not detail what, if any, deficiencies existed, but students had demanded improvements in areas of curriculum, faculty and physical plant.

There was no debate prior to the board action, but afterward David H. Kurtzman, superintendent of public instruction, and Frederick Miller, state commissioner of higher education, reported on the situation at Cheyney.

Student Competes for 'Shower Power'

NEW WILMINGTON — The news won't make the splash that pitcher Jim Catfish Hunter's perfect game did. And there will be no wave of surprise like that which rippled across America after Dancer's Image was disqualified as winner of the Kentucky Derby.

But in his own quiet way, Dave Mills, 19, of Westminster College is slowly but surely, drop-by-drop, closing in on a record.

In the shower stall of a motel room in this Western Pennsylvania college town, Mills, clad only in swimming trunks, sits patiently, but somewhat drowsily, on a chair while water from the shower head beats against his skin—minute-after-minute, hour-after-hour.

His goal is to remain in the shower 100 hours, maybe 120, and crack what is believed to be a record 91 hours of continuous showering set by a Princeton University student last week.

Injunction Stops Sleep-In at Temple

PHILADELPHIA — A show of force by some 500 policemen under the personal command of Police Commissioner Frank L. Rizzo, changed the minds of some 150 student demonstrators at Temple University last night about testing a court order banning campus protest gatherings.

The injunction had been issued yesterday morning to break up a sleep-in of 51 students in ivy-covered Milton Hall, the campus social activities center. The demonstration had been called to protest university policy on student participation in university administration and other complaints. Temple has an enrollment of 35,000 full and part-time students.

Last night's gathering capped a day of student vituperation against university officials and several rallies in protest of the court injunction.

Semi-Finalists Picked For Miss Penn State

Ten semi-finalists in the Miss Penn State 1968 Contest were announced yesterday by contest co-chairman Peter Bowers. The girls and their sponsors are Linda Bitzer, Kappa Alpha Theta and Chi Phi; Lois Clouse, Kappa Delta and Delta Chi; Patty Disbro, Pi Beta Phi and Phi Gamma Delta; Karen Giebelhaus, Chi Omega and Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Jan Hartzell, Delta Gamma and Delta Upsilon.

Marcia Joseph, Gamma Phi Beta and Delta Sigma Phi; Natalie Moser, Kappa Kappa Gamma and Beta Sigma Rho; Kay Reagan, Alpha Omicron Pi and Sigma Nu; Janice Steubner, McElwain Hall and Alpha Chi Sigma; and Jane Woolever, Delta Zeta and Phi Kappa Psi.

Bowers said the ten girls were chosen from among 31 contestants on Tuesday night. Sunday the girls will again meet with the judges to determine the five finalists in the contest for the University queen.

Judging on activities, beauty and personality, the judges will announce the five finalists Monday afternoon. The girls will be presented in the Spring Week Motorcade at 7 p.m. Monday from the fairgrounds, according to Bowers.

The girls will reign over the events of Spring Week, assisting with the Madhatter's Contest and the Fun Olympics as well as the Carnival Saturday night. They will join the judges for a private dinner in the State

Room of the Corner Room Hotel May 20 as the competition for the crown draws to a close.

Awards Night

At the Awards Night Ceremonies May 21, they will face a question-answer period with the audience and judges. After the final judging, the new Miss Penn State will be crowned by Miss Svoboda, Miss Penn State 1967.

"This year," Bowers said, "we want to expand the role of Miss Penn State so she will be more than a figurehead at the University." He said that the new queen should be more of a representative for the University at events which need such a representative.

He added that he and his co-chairman, Mary Pat Loftus, have contacted Clark Arrington, public relations commissioner for the Undergraduate Student Government, about putting Miss Penn State at the disposal of USG. Bowers explained that she could represent the student body at the University and throughout the state when deemed necessary.

This is one reason that activities are being stressed so heavily in this year's competition. "We want to integrate Miss Penn State with the University events," he explained.

He said the possibility of the new Miss Penn State helping with the freshmen Orientation program is also being investigated. By MARGE COHEN

Registration Next Week in HUB

Panhel Sets Rush Schedule

Registration for fall sorority rush will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday in 203 Hetzel Union Building. All girls who are planning to participate in fall rush must register at this time.

Bobbi Wintoniak, Pennhellenic Council Rush Chairman, announced that no fee for rush registration will be collected until a later date. She also announced at this week's Panhel meeting that a complete schedule for fall rush has been approved.

The first round of rush parties will take place on Sept. 18 or 19 and rush will continue through Sept. 24. No parties will be held on Sept. 21 due to the scheduling of the first home football game.

Bids will be issued on Sept. 25, Miss

Wintoniak said, after the completion of the final round of parties. Sororities may open bid through the remainder of the term. Only those girls who have participated in at least one round of rush parties may accept an open bid.

Miss Wintoniak also stated that a girl may participate in fall rush only if she is of at least third term standing and has at least an All-University average of 2.0. All transfer students will be eligible for rush also.

In other business, it was announced that the Panhellenic Council, in conjunction with the Interfraternity Council, will travel to the Ogontz campus on May 28. They will present a program describing the Greek system at the University, and will answer questions on rush or pledge programs.

'Hilarious History' Theme

Spring Week Festivities Set

By MARGE COHEN
Collegian Staff Writer

"Hilarious History" will be made at the University next week as Spring Week 1968 gets underway, according to Chairman Tom Golden and Vice Chairman Rich Weiner.

Thirty five groups will participate in various activities in "spirits of fun and friendly competition" for this week in the Spring. The activities will begin Monday and continue through Saturday night.

"We want Spring Week: this year to be more than just one night of a Carnival," the chairman said. "We want it to be truly a Spring Week, filled with activities for the enjoyment and relaxation of all University students," they added.

The theme for this year's Spring Week is Hilarious History, with each group selecting topics in response to the question, "What would have happened if..."

Basing their ideas in the past, present and future, the group will follow through with the themes in posters, hats and facades at the carnival. Miss Penn State 1968 will also be chosen next week.

Activities will kick-off with a motorcade beginning at 7 p.m. from the fairgrounds through campus and town Monday night, according to Golden and Weiner. Each group will have a set number of cars to advertise their theme and mark the pace for the week's events.

Posters by each group will be put on display in the ballroom of the Hetzel Union Building Tuesday morning. They will remain there until Friday when they will be moved to a tent at the Carnival grounds. Golden said that faculty members and administrators will judge the posters and the winner will be announced at the Awards Night, May 21.

Judging will be based on advertising appeal, simplicity of theme, creativity and artistic merit. Workmanship and compliance with the rules will also be considered.

Co-chairmen for the poster contest are Ron Kovler, Sandy McClennen and Cindy Gardiner.

Tuesday will also feature the Fun Olympics starting at 2 p.m. at Wagner Field. Described as a "crazy contest," by the Spring Week chairmen, the olympic will include activities such as a "Pathfinder's Paradise," "Brave New World" and a "Mixed-up Marathon."

One of the events, the "Red Baron Race," will consist of tricycles equipped with wings, inspired by the well-known comic strip character. Another event, new this year, is the "Charge of the Light Brigade," in which male contestants will pursue female competitors in a chase which the chairmen said "would be a lot of fun."

This event is open to anyone interested in participating. Points will be given to the winners of each contest and totaled to determine the over-all champion.

Race co-chairmen are Meyer Krauss, Kathy Rittner and Ginny Sharp.

The Madhatters competition will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Recreation Building. Hats created by the groups according to the theme will be displayed before the audience and judges. The judges will be faculty members.

Finalists for the Miss Penn State Contest will be on hand to describe the hats before they are put on display with the posters on the carnival grounds.

The Madhatters will be judged on adaptation and adherence to theme, originality and quality of construction. The winner will be announced at the awards night program.

"Since this event has been moved to Rec Hall," Weiner said, "attendance has increased and we expect a good crowd this year." The event is open to the public.

Chairmen for it are Uan Jernstad, Earl Segal and Cathy Carmella.

Participants will engage in more physical activity as the preliminaries for the He-Man Contest get underway at 2:30 p.m. Thursday in the main gym of Recreation Building. The competition is open to the public.

Events will test a "combination of speed, strength and agility," Weiner explained. The five men with the highest number of points will be selected to compete in the final competition scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Sunday at Beaver Stadium.

Ken Waetzman, Marlou McNally and Bob Brinley are chairmen for the event.

Golden said Friday was a day of preparation for Saturday's Carnival on the Intramural Field adjacent to Beaver Stadium. Tents for 33 groups and three booths will be set up. The three booths will represent Town Independent Men's Council, the Persian Rifles and North Halls.

The Carnival will run on Saturday from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 7:30 p.m. to midnight. During the afternoon, orphans from throughout central Pennsylvania will be treated as University guests for Carnival skits and rides. Chairmen are Stu Bodow, Beth Bell and Norm Feldstein.

"We expect a large crowd for the Carnival," Golden said, "not only from the University, but also from the spectators of the Blue-White game."

"With the choice of our topic," he said, "we envision good satire in the skits." He added, "Anything in the skits in bad taste could result in the closing of the tent."

Weiner said that since the skits have been reviewed by the chairmen, this problem should not arise. Judging of the skits will also include the costumes and set designs within each tent. The tent facades will be checked for originality, construction and theme and adaptation.

The rain date for the Carnival is May 20. "We fervently pray that this does not occur," recalling memories of Spring Week 1966 when the Carnival was rained out.

This year's chairmen seemed more optimistic about the weather, having also planned a gymkhana for Saturday afternoon.

The gymkhana is scheduled for 12:30 p.m. Saturday at East Halls Parking Lot 80. Each group participating in Spring Week is sponsoring a car in the competition, consisting of three divisions—two for sports cars and one for sedans.

Cars must be registered with the University and drivers must be full-time students.

While they are running the route in the gymkhana, the Fun Rally will be underway at 1:30 p.m. This road rally replaces the powder-puff gymkhana of previous Spring Weeks, according to the chairmen, but does not overlook interested female drivers. For one of the occupants of the cars during the scavenger hunt must be a female, they explained.

Both events are being planned by Buz Plesser and Linda Bitzer.

The culmination of the week's activities will be at the awards night ceremonies beginning at 8 p.m. May 21 in Recreation Building. Winners of the poster, Madhatter and Carnival events will be announced and trophies will be presented. Trophies will also be presented at awards night to the winners of the Fun Olympics, He-Man and gymkhana competitions.

Parking, Landscape Remain Big Difficulties

Planning Head Explains Building Problems

By ALLAN YODER
Collegian Staff Writer

"Penn State is an architectural disaster!" or so went the cry of some fifth-year architecture students at the University three years ago.

Their cause stirred little in the way of student response, and the issue was eventually dropped. But occasional comments are still heard on the subject.

Many of these comments center on the architectural design of such buildings as Hammond, Human Development South and Sackett. But the main complaints of students are personal ones such as parking and the lack of open spaces left on campus.

Walter H. Wiegand, director of planning at the University, had some comments on these problems and what the University plans for new buildings in the future.

Wiegand, while talking about some of these new buildings, mentioned that his department usually must take the space for the new structures from parking lots and open spaces. He cited the new women's physical education building as an example. The space for that structure, Wiegand said, came from part of the Hetzel Union Building parking lot.

Alleviating Problems

Wiegand also had an idea for alleviating the problem of parking facilities. He proposed that a large parking lot be constructed near Beaver Stadium and that some type of subway be built to transport students and faculty from the parking lot to key parts of the campus.

Although this is only a dream Wiegand has, he feels that it would solve the parking problem.

When questioned about the reduction of open spaces and trees on campus, Wiegand said his department was doing the best it could to preserve space and trees.

He added that it is often unavoidable to keep from cutting trees down. In reference to the cutting down of trees lining Atherton Street Monday, Wiegand said, "If the students want to climb in the trees while we're cutting them down, we'll have to cut them down too (with the trees)."

The director of planning also had an explanation of the problems involved in the architectural designing of new buildings. Using Hammond as an example, he explained that many things must be considered. For one, there was a need for a great deal of room in the new building. Architects try to keep Hammond in the area of the other engineering buildings; they had to connect it and tie it in with Sackett and also keep within the limited budget set aside by the General State Authority for the construction.

GSA

The GSA, Wiegand said, is an authority set up by the state to finance construction of all state-related buildings. The GSA finances and gives out bids for these buildings, and the GSA holds the lease to the building until the mortgage has been paid, usually for a period of 30 to 35 years. When the building is paid for, the GSA gives the building to the University.

Most buildings on campus are financed in this manner, with the exception of residence halls and food-service buildings. These buildings are constructed with money the University provides.

Many other new buildings are planned for the next five years, Wiegand said.

Prominent on the list is the new auditorium and lecture hall to be started this summer on the site of the University Press building on Shortlidge Road. It is now in its final design stages, and is expected to be completed by 1970. It will seat 2,600, with 900 seats in two balconies. Wiegand said the new auditorium's stage will be "better than most stages in New York City theaters." It will also have an orchestra pit, an expandable stage operated by hydraulic lifts and will be air conditioned. The new structure will supplement Schwab, he said.

New Design

Walter H. Walters, associate dean of the college of arts and architecture, said the auditorium was originally planned as a round structure. But as problems arose in the design of the building, the circularity of the structure lessened. Walters said a picture of the round auditorium that appeared in the Collegian last year calling the design a commode was a major reason for the redesigning of the building.

Another planned building at the University will be two additions to the library. The first addition, to cost $4 million, will be located to the east of the present library. The second addition, connected to the first and also to the east, will cost $8 million. The combined additions will more than double the present size of Pattee. The new structures will reach as far as the Life Sciences Building along Curtin Road, across from the Forum.

The new library additions, planned in two stages, will be similar in design to the rest of the mall. There will be few windows in the new structures and they will be air conditioned.

Also planned for the next few years is a graduate school center. It will be located across from West Halls on the site of the old stadium. The seven story building will contain a social center on the ground floor, similar to the HUB.

'Nice Campus'

Penn State architecture, if not the most aesthetically pleasing or original, cannot be said to be a disaster, according to Walters. "I think this is one of the nicest campuses in the United States. It's an especially well-kept campus. I'm always proud to show people around the school," he said.

Wiegand added, "Architecture anywhere is a matter of opinion. I think Penn State architecture expresses Penn State. We don't have a completely unified, single plan of architecture for the campus, but we don't want it. Other schools have tried that and they have failed. It becomes too costly."

"The architecture here expresses what Penn State was years ago and it expresses the periods of growth from 1855. You either like it or you don't. I like it. We've done the best we can," he added.

Glee Club To Present Mother's Day Tribute

The Penn State Glee Club under the direction of Lewis M. Spratlan will present its annual tribute to mothers in a "Spring Musical Happening" at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in Schwab.

The program will feature a combination of classical and popular music, including a special salute to the "Bossa Nova." It will be open to the public.

Soloists Donald Barnum, a baritone from the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia, and Melinda Kessler, a soprano with a growing reputation for unusual excellence in the performance of contemporary music, will make guest appearances during the program.

Selections from "Carmen" They will be featured in the first half of the program which will be devoted to music of the Renaissance period and two selections from the opera "Carmen."

Miss Kessler has been a frequent soloist in concerts at several colleges including Smith, Vassar, Amherst, Mount Holyoke and Yale.

Barnum, who performs on the operatic stage and in concert, is currently in his second year of study at the Curtis Institute under Marjalee Singher.

The second half of the show, entitled "Bossa Nova '68," will include seven arrangements prepared by Spratlan for Glee Club and instrumental ensemble.

65 Members

Made up of 65 members, the 1968 all-male Glee Club represents practically all the major curricula on campus. The Glee Club has been rehearsing about three and four hours a week for the "Mother's Day" program.

The "Hy-Lo's," a group of 16 singers selected from the entire group for special parts during the program, practiced another four hours each week.

The instrumental ensemble will include a flute, oboe, string quartet, bass and drums.

Orientation Leaders Sought For Summer Term Students

Orange at Stadium

Thinclads Home

By DAN DONOVAN
Collegian Sports Writer

The Penn State track and field team will shoot for its first dual meet victory of the outdoor season tomorrow at Beaver Stadium when it hosts Syracuse at 1:30 p.m.

State will be favored in this meeting of the two rival schools, as it boasts a well-balanced but not flashy team. Syracuse has already lost a meet to Colgate, not a powerful squad.

Last year, basically the same Syracuse team fell before the charging Lions by a 107-38 score. State won in all but one event in downing the Orangemen.

Lions Confident

Syracuse will be out to avenge that defeat, but State is confident in its might. The Orange will be strongest in the sprints this year. Team captain Ron Manne is a top sprinter who has been clocked at 9.7 in the 100 and 21.9 in the 220.

Manne will be backed by Bill Roberts, quarter-mile. He's a fleet runner who is expected to cover the distance in close to 48.8. In the hurdles, Tom Wood is the mainstay of the Syracuse team. Wood ran the hurdles in 44.1 to set a meet record when Syracuse lost to Colgate.

Distances Fast

Syracuse also boasts some fine distance runners, who may give State a bit of trouble. The field events will be a sort of mystery this week, since no one is certain just how good the Syracuse weight men are. Most of their shot, discus and javelin men have been in spring football training and have yet to perform in a dual meet.

State will counter against Syracuse with some of its finest runners. Manne will face State's fine 9.7 runner Bob Beam in what should be the closest race.

The durable Ken Brinker will again run in four events. This week, he'll attempt the 220 and the high hurdles, besides running on the 440 relay team and anchoring the mile relay squad.

Distance runner Ray Smith will see double duty this week, running both the mile and two-mile for State. Smith is preparing for his head-on clash with Pitt's Jerry Richey one week from Saturday in the Big Four meet.

This weekend State will test a mile relay team which hopefully will bring victory in the Big Four meet and the IC4As. Harry McLaughlin, Howie Epstein, Steve Calhoun, and Brinker will carry the baton for State.

Javelin Trio

Earlier this week, State had a throw-off to determine who will hurl the javelin in this weekend. Joining Dick Richardson in this event will be Charlie Bradley and Tom Allen.

Syracuse is weak in the jumping events, and State will try to capitalize on this weakness. Captain Chip Rockwell, Ray Blinn and Bob Kester, who swept the triple jump against Navy, hope to repeat this feat against the Orange.

The main objective this weekend will be a sort of preparation for two upcoming meets. State's coaches are anticipating a fine showing by the Lions in preparation for the four-way meet May 18 with Pitt, Syracuse, and West Virginia. After that, the IC4A championships will be the center of attention.

IT'S HARD to be a forgotten man when you've scored 14 goals and 21 assists, but not too many Penn Staters can come up with the name of Bob Schoepflin (5) when discussing lacrosse. Most publicized is sophomore Ken Edwards, here moving the ball against an unidentified Rutgers opponent.

Schoepflin Forgotten Man

LaXers Eye 5th

By STEVE SOLOMON
Collegian Sports Writer

Even the casual lacrosse fan picks up the names quickly. Ken Edwards comes first; of course, because when you score three or four goals a game and add a similar number of assists and when you shoot over your shoulder and behind your back and generally run the show, you are bound to get a lot of attention.

Then you recognize Galen Godbey, because at 6-5 and 220 pounds you don't overlook him unless Katherine Ross is sitting beside you.

The next name is likely to be that of Bob Schoepflin. Bob who? Don't hold your breath until somebody tells you, because the lacrosse coach spends his time in strategy sessions at this time of the season. Last year's star is this season's superstar, but now it's a two-man show.

Schoepflin got all the press releases last year when he was a bright-eyed sophomore with an unusually large lump in his throat but an equally amazing scoring touch at any distance. He practically carried the Penn State offense alone, scoring 10 goals and 23 assists, a major accomplishment for a fellow who didn't start in high school until injuries wiped out the first team.

This year things are different. Another sophomore "wunderkind" is on the scene, and Schoepflin, who with three games remaining on the schedule has already surpassed his 1967 totals, can sit back and appreciate what Ken Edwards is going through.

"There's a lot of pressure on Ken," Schoepflin said of the young Lion who has 26 goals and 32 assists and clippings from Sports Illustrated. "I know, because I went through it last year. But now that there's another scorer on the team, I feel much more relaxed. I think my play has improved because of it."

Schoepflin is a 5-7, 140-pounder from Huntington High School, the center of Long Island's annual lacrosse frenzy. In his senior year, Huntington won the league and Long Island championship and placed 11 men on all-city, state, or national teams, which helps to explain why a college star faced his biggest challenge trying to win a letter in high school.

Schoepflin, though, was an instant hit at Penn State. Coach Dick Penick welcomed him with a handshake, a lacrosse stick and an amiable offense. Schoepflin cured the latter.

"He's probably one of the top five attackmen that Penn State has ever had," assistant coach Tom Hayes said. "With Edwards around, he doesn't get the attention that he enjoyed last year, but he's still our most consistent player. We can always count on him for three or four points a game."

Schoepflin's journey to Penn State has brought unexpected benefits.

"When you recruit a player like Schoepflin," Hayes continued, "you get more than four years of good lacrosse, it helps the whole recruiting program. Bobby was one of the top players in Long Island, and high school boys listened when you tell them that one of the players they admired came up here."

Schoepflin and his mates entertain Cortland State at 3:30 tomorrow afternoon in a battle of similar styles. The Red Dragons' coach, Fred Pisano, was an assistant under Penick in 1962 and has since carried his playboy strategy northward.

"On paper, it looks like a pretty even matchup," Hayes said. "But I think we would be favored by one or two goals because of our tougher schedule."

Not to mention a little attackman named... uh...

Orioles Look Like AL Champs of '66

BALTIMORE (AP) — The remainder of the American League would do well to cast a wary eye at the fast start by the Baltimore Orioles.

The 1968 Orioles don't resemble the 1966 pennant-winners—in personnel or performance to date—but there are enough parallels to cause concern for the opponents.

So far, the pitching has been vastly superior to 1966 with the hitting less potent.

Just as important as raw ability, perhaps, as outfielder Paul Blair points out, is "the return of the winning spirit."

Not as Bad

"We're out to show we're not as bad as last year," Blair said, referring to the 1967 collapse which tumbled the Orioles into a sixth place tie.

"Last year we sat back and waited for something to happen," said Blair. "This year, we're making things happen and forcing the other teams to make mistakes."

Only 12 of the current 25 players were with Baltimore through the entire 1966 season, but they include seven of the eight day-to-day regulars.

The lone exception is shortstop Mark Belanger, the youngster whose promise prompted the Orioles to deal veteran Luis Aparicio during the off-season.

Two years ago, the Orioles opened with rookie catcher Andy Etchebarren, rookie second baseman Dave Johnson and second-year player Blair in center. Baseball traditionalists said a team with so much inexperience up the middle couldn't win, but Baltimore did.

Two vs. George Washington Tomorrow

Lion Nine Seeks To End Skid

By DON MCKEE
Assistant Sports Editor

Chuck Medlar lit a cigarette, leaned back in his chair, and spoke about the previous day's game. Medlar had watched his team get three runs in the first inning, and then die at the

... tries again tomorrow plate. Temple won 9-3, and Medlar wasn't happy with the loss. He's seen too many already this year.

"I don't know what to say about that game," Medlar said. "We got off to a quick lead, then suddenly we were behind. When we hit the ball, it went right at somebody. It's just been that kind of a year. Maybe the law of averages is catching up with us after five winning seasons, because we aren't getting any breaks."

The Temple game was typical of the entire season for the Lions. Starter Denny Lingenfelter had to leave the game with a stiff shoulder. At the time State had a 3-1 lead, but the Owls jumped on reliever Gary Manderbach for a five-run inning and that was the game.

Bill Miesky, Wayne Burns and Frank Spaziani also worked in the Temple game, but only Spaziani was effective.

Spaziani Tough

"I was very pleased with Spaziani," Medlar said. "He had a real good fastball and kept the ball down most of the time. When he's throwing like that, no one can do much damage against him."

Temple's hitters certainly couldn't do much damage to Spaz. He pitched two-hit ball for four and two-thirds innings.

While the Owls were rattling their bats against Manderbach and Burns, the Lions were going down steadily. The pitching of Hal Wernitz, Gary Kanaskie and John Featherstone rapped RBI singles in the first, but after Jim Watts' single leading off the second the Lions couldn't touch Wernitz for a safety.

New Challenge

Tomorrow at 1 p.m. the Lions run up against George Washington in a doubleheader, and tomorrow the Lions will be facing something new.

When the NCAA ruled that individual conferences could decide on eligibility of freshmen for varsity sports, the committee made GW coach Steve Korchek the happiest man in the nation's capital, next to Hubert Humphrey.

The reason? Korchek has the guy who may be the best, freshman pitcher in the country—and at George Washington he's eligible for varsity competition.

Hank Bunnell, 6-4 right-hander from Scranton, is rated the top pitching prospect ever to attend George Washington. In his career in high school

Did They Ignore Wilt?

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Idle conversation between a reporter and Vince Miller, scout-statistician for the Philadelphia 76ers of the National Basketball Association, may have solved the mystery of why Wilt Chamberlain took a few shots in the seventh and final game of the Eastern final against Boston.

Miller told George Kiseda of the Philadelphia Bulletin his chart showed Chamberlain got the ball in the pivot just seven times in the second half—twice in the third period, and five times in the final quarter. In the first half, the ball went into the pivot 23 times. Kiseda asked Chamberlain why the 7-foot-1 center didn't point this out in answering questions about why he only took one shot in the second half.

"What would I have looked like if I had said, 'Hey, we lost because my teammates didn't get the ball into me? If Alex Hannum didn't have guts enough to lay it on the line and accept a certain amount of responsibility for the loss and name the reasons why, then I've lost a lot of respect for him, which I have, and I will tell him that when I see him. You can't shoot the ball if you don't have the ball."

"But you know something, after the game, not one writer came up to me and said: 'Hey, how come the ball didn't come into you?' Not one."

Enter EIGAs at Princeton

Golfers Go for 3rd Straight Title

By DICK ZELLER

Collegian Sports Writer

Penn State's golf team will be looking for its third straight Eastern Intercollegiate Golf Association championship this weekend as the Lions travel to the Springdale Country Club in Princeton, N.J. for the 1968 edition of the EIGAs.

Coach Joe Boyle, who in his 12 years as head coach has had four championship teams ('63, '64, '66 and '67), sees the toughest competition this season coming from Princeton and Harvard. The tourney opens tomorrow and continues through Monday.

"Princeton will be going all out to win it on their home course," Boyle said. "Both Princeton and Harvard have several outstanding players back from last year."

Returning to haunt the State players will be many of their opponents from earlier in the season. Eric Utegaard of Navy, who slipped by State's Jim Geiger in a 21-hole marathon last Saturday, will be back in action tomorrow. Indiana, Villanova, Navy, Georgetown, Lehigh and Colgate will all be looking to avenge earlier losses to the Lions.

Other contestants will include Yale, champions in 1965 when State placed second, Syracuse, Army, Pitt, the remainder of the Ivy League and many strong teams among the New England independents.

Of the playing conditions, Boyle said, "I understand that the course is in excellent shape. It is not too long and is a little narrow, but the way our boys have been going, it shouldn't give them much trouble."

And if past performances are any indication, the course shouldn't give the Lions any trouble at all. The last time the tournament was at Princeton was in 1964, and Jim Tabor won the individual title for State while playing in the number four spot. State linksmen have placed well in other years when the EIGAs have found their way to the New Jersey site.

Leading the State attack will be last year's individual co-champions, Jim Geiger and Frank Guise. Geiger, a senior and captain of the Lion squad, has been impressive in his recent appearances in the first spot. A number of below-par rounds make the possibilities of a repeat champion good.

JIM GEIGER
... Lion captain

Guise has a 6-3 record so far this season. The senior from Fort Washington has held down the third spot in the State lineup all season.

Rusty Washburn placed second in the '67 tournament, which was held at University Park. The senior letterman will be getting his last chance to crack the top spot. Washburn has a 7-2 record, an improvement over last year's 9-6 mark.

Last of the returning contestants in the Lion lineup is Ernie Saniga. Another senior, Saniga hails from Bentleyville. He was a bright spot on last year's team and has made himself known this season. His 6-3 record matches that of Geiger and Guise.

Best of the newcomers is Tom Apple. The State junior is leading the team in victories with eight wins in nine matches. Apple is a one-time Pennsylvania high school champion, but he sat out last season.

Bob Hirschman has been steadily improving and is another strong player in the field. Sporting a 7-2 record, he's burned up the course on a few occasions when he has been accurate.

Seventh man in the tourney for State will be Max Corbin. The sophomore from nearby Huntingdon has been seen in four matches this season and has split them for a 2-2 record. Corbin will be looking to strengthen his hold on a starting spot on the Lion team as well as to secure Eastern honors.

"I think we have an excellent chance to repeat," Boyle said of his team's prospects for this weekend. "We have seven good men, and any one of them could win the individual championship."

As a team, the Lions stand 7-2 on the season with the two losses going to Maryland and West Virginia, neither of which will be represented in the Easterns. Last week the Lions handed Navy a 6-1 defeat when the Midshipmen visited University Park. The same Navy team met Princeton at Annapolis and won the match 5-2.

Many "ifs" are involved in this weekend's play. If everyone on the Lion squad has a good day, if no other team in the East suddenly appears with five great scores, if the weather conditions are good in Princeton, and if all the Lion linksmen turn in their best scores of the year, Penn State's five-year dominance of Eastern golf will continue through 1968.

Freshmen Suffer First Loss

By MIKE ABELSON
Collegian Sports Writer

A previously undefeated Penn State freshman baseball team, upset by two errors in the ninth inning, dropped a 6-5 heartbreaker at Bucknell in a return match Wednesday. The Lions defeated the Bison 5-4 on April 20 at University Park.

Starting pitcher Roy Swanson developed a sore shoulder during the fourth inning. Coach Don Kepler removed him from the game as a precautionary measure. Nick Platco pitched the remainder of the game, and though he had never pitched before, he did a "real fine job," according to Kepler.

The Lions held a one-run advantage after 8½ innings, but it vanished rapidly. After retiring the first batter, Platco yielded two consecutive singles, placing runners on first and second. Cliff Portis then muffed a ground ball, allowing the lead runner to score.

Catcher Mike Wells, attempting a pickoff, fired the ball over first baseman Gary Murphy's head, and the runners advanced. A fly ball to deep center was enough to score the winning run from third.

The hitting star for the Lions was first baseman Gary Murphy, who collected two walks, a single and a home run in four trips to the plate. He scored twice and knocked in two runs. Hal Lutz also had a good day, compiling a double and single with two RBI's.

Although it was its first defeat, Kepler was by no means disappointed with the team. "I was more proud of the boys on Wednesday than at any point of the season," he said. "We played well, but the breaks all seemed to go against us."

Next Wednesday the frosh travel to Behrend to meet a team which they defeated 17-0 last Saturday. Another triumph like that would certainly ease the pain of Wednesday's loss.

Lions Face Two On Trip South

By JOHN LaPLACE
Collegian Sports Writer

With a 13-day layoff to prepare for a two-meet road trip to the Washington, D.C. area, where the Nittany Lion tennis squad faces Georgetown tomorrow and unbeaten Maryland Sunday, coach Holmes Cathrall got very little done due to the weather and now finds himself in a desperate search for a panacea.

Cathrall's need for a cure-all developed during the two-week layoff, when a rash of injuries swept through his squad. The injuries have jeopardized the status of State's outstanding senior captain, Mario Obando. The Costa Rican, who is suffering from tendonitis, is the only Lion whose starting role is doubtful because of the injuries, but his absence Sunday when the Lions face the top Eastern team, Maryland, would be a crippling blow to the Lions' hopes.

Forearm Trouble

Obando's ailment is in no way connected with "tennis elbow," and he should be back in top form shortly. He's suffering from inflammation and soreness of the muscles of his forearm.

Neal Kramer, State's number two netman, is suffering from a stiff neck, but Cathrall expects to have him in the lineup this weekend. Kramer will be faced with the task of taking up the slack that Obando's absence might create.

Cathrall also lists Tom DeHuff on his temporary disabled list with a bruised shoulder. Previously, Jeff Kaplan, who broke into the starting line at Navy, had injured his hand, requiring six to eight stitches, but the injury didn't affect his play and he will retain his spot in Cathrall's front line.

State's netmen run into a situation of freshmen eligibility again. Although State had no freshmen trouble with West Virginia in varsity competition—the Lions won 9-0—Cathrall points to the fact that unbeaten Maryland has four of the best fresh players in the East on its squad.

Knew Strength

"We knew Maryland would be tough at the beginning of the season, and they have certainly lived up to their billing," Cathrall said. "They are unbeaten and one of the strongest teams in the East. We'll have our hands full on Saturday with Georgetown. They're always tough due mainly to their proximity to a good supply of local talent."

Cathrall, who was still looking for his cure-all yesterday afternoon, hopes to have his complete lineup ready for action this weekend. The formula which has brought the Lions four wins against two setbacks this season consists of captain Obando, Kramer, Glenn Rupert, Kaplan, Tom Daley and DeHuff.

TENDONITIS TROUBLES make number one tennis man Mario Obando (above) a doubtful starter in this weekend's two matches, against Georgetown and Maryland. Injuries have bothered several netmen during the long layoff since the last match, but Holmes Cathrall's squad (4-2) should be fit enough to give both Southern opponents sufficient competition.

Jurgensen, Two Others Testify in Federal Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Quarterback Sonny Jurgensen and a Washington Redskins teammate testified voluntarily in a federal grand jury investigation of gambling, the club said Thursday.

Subpoenas for Jurgensen, guard Vince Promuto and Baltimore defensive end Andy Strychala were made public when the subpoenas were dropped by authorities in federal court in suburban Alexandria, Va.

Pittsburgh Steelers tackle Fran O'Brien and former Washington quarterback Ralph Guglielmi were called as witnesses to testify briefly as the closed probe went through its third day. A total of 54 witnesses has been subpoenaed.

Dark Wants New Pinch-Hit Ruling

NEW YORK (AP)—In a year of concern about "armless" batting averages, Alvin Dark suggests a permanent pinch hitter for the pitcher.

The idea isn't new. People have been talking about similar changes for years. Nothing happened. Probably nothing will happen this time.

The manager of the Cleveland Indians has no selfish motive. He just wants to prolong the careers of baseball's superstars, a vanishing breed.

Extra Years

"I think the idea would keep men like Mickey Mantle, Willie Mays, Al Kaline and Hank Aaron in baseball for a few extra years," said Dark.

"Baseball needs to keep those fellows in the game. When the time comes that they can't play regularly, this would be a perfect solution."

If Dark's proposal were to be adopted, no pitcher would bat. A specific player would be designated to bat in the pitcher's spot in the order on a given day.

Permanent Pinch-Hitter

"Supposing you list the pitcher in the No. 4 spot in your order," said Dark. "When the New York Yankee pitcher is due up, Mickey Mantle would bat. Even if they took Mickey out for a pinch runner, he still would bat every time the pitcher was scheduled. In this way, a fan could go to the park knowing he would see Mantle bat four or five times every day."

"I am just using Mantle as an example, of course. He isn't ready for that yet. First base has helped prolong his career. He should be able to play first for years."

In National League action yesterday, Rocky Colavito, Bob Bailey and Zoilo Versalles smashed home runs in support of Bill Singer's three-hit pitching as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Chicago Cubs 6-0. Colavito's homer, his third in two days, highlighted a three-run eighth inning.

Versalles connected with the bases empty in the first inning while Bailey drove one into the center field seats with a runner aboard in the fourth. It was the first home run of the season for each player.
