

L.A. 498 To Offer Eight New Sections

By LYNNE FOOTE
Collegian Staff Writer

The College of the Liberal Arts will offer this fall eight sections of Liberal Arts 498 dealing with contemporary topics.

The experimental program is under the office of Associate Dean Arthur O. Lewis and will include three-credit courses for juniors and seniors.

The course topics will include "Language Behavior of Afro-Americans," "Economics of Discrimination," "Soviet Society," "National Security Policy," "The Sociology of Leisure," "Technology, What is it?" and "Love, Power and Justice: An Inquiry into the Fundamental Nature of Existence." The eighth section is still unstructured.

Liberal Arts 198, currently in the University Senate and structured the same as L.A. 498, is geared for freshmen and sophomores.

A student may take L.A. 498 twice, enrolling in two different sections. In many instances the course can be used to fulfill liberal arts basic requirements. In specific instances and with the permission of the individual departments, the course can be used for credit in major fields.

The topics for L.A. 498 change every term. Some are established as permanent courses within individual departments.

Further information about L.A. 498 or 198 is available in 116 Sparks Advisers will provide lists of the topics planned for Fall, Winter and Spring Terms.

Math 17, another liberal arts course, also can be used to fulfill basic requirements. Certain sections of the course are directed toward non-math majors who need three credits to fulfill their requirements.

Math 17 is taught on a team-teaching basis. Different professors within the mathematics department will lecture on topics related to their individual fields; the topics will vary each term.

Raymond G. Ayoub, head of the Department of Mathematics, is in charge of the program.

USG Hits Old Main For Silence on Protest

bill's purpose was to "reimburse congressmen for hard work" as well as to provide an incentive to those students who could not serve on USG because of financial need.

Opposition to the bill stemmed from the fact that funds for the stipend would come from the USG Scholarship Fund. A monetary incentive also might not attract people with the "right idea about student government."

The first stated that congressmen must attend all USG meetings or send a qualified representative. Each congressman must attend, at least twice per month, the meeting of the specific organization which governs the area which he represents. In addition, congressmen must hold office hours bi-weekly in the living area they represent. The USG secretary would determine which congressmen meet these qualifications.

Dennis Stimeling, West Halls congressman and co-author of the bill, said the can defense demands be reconciled with domestic needs.

GSA To Seek Counsel In Elks Compensation

By SANDY BAZONIS
Collegian Staff Writer

The Graduate Student Association voted last night to permit the executive committee upon legal consultation to pay the Elks Club such compensation fees as may be negotiated.

The executive committee will meet with a lawyer and Elks representatives to discuss whether the contract between the two parties was legal and whether GSA owes the Elks a compensation fee for GSA's cancellation of its dinner dance. The Elks has asked GSA for $125.

Jim Hardy, GSA treasurer, said that no one knows whether or not the contract is legally binding. "The Elks have the only copy of the contract," he said.

Bob Rickards, GSA vice president, told the council that if the Elks "have not been able to rent the room, we should pay them a fee but if they have rented it, we should not pay it."

Hardy said, "legally, if there is a cancellation and one of the parties has gone to any trouble, compensation is necessary."

Dana Friedman (graduate-mathematics-Brooklyn, N.Y.) suggested to the council that the $125 be paid to the Elks but that the Elks be asked to show good faith by donating the money to the Martin Luther King Jr. scholarship fund or the Black Student Union. The council voted however, to abide by the original motion of permitting the executive committee to make the final decision of payment to the Elks after legal consultation.

Klaus May, chairman of the GSA committee on disadvantaged students, suggested in a letter to the council that the details of the Elks affair be sent to the local and state human relations boards, the University Senate, the graduate school faculty, University President Eric A. Walker, the University vice presidents, deans of the colleges, department heads, student organizations and members of the Board of Trustees, urging them not to support the Elks national and local clubs through their membership or through the use of Elks' facilities available to the public.

May also called for "the Elks' withdrawal from the national chapter or the acceptance of non-caucasians in the local chapter in moral defiance of the national Elks' discriminatory charter."

2nd Performance Set

The University Chapel and Concert Choirs and the University Symphony Orchestra will have an open rehearsal tonight. The rehearsal, scheduled to accommodate persons who have been unable to obtain tickets to tomorrow's performance, will begin at 8:30 p.m. in Schwab.

The Episcopal Student Association will meet at 11:30 a.m. today in 216 Hetzel Union Building.

The Press Association of Commonwealth Campuses will meet at noon today in the HUB ballroom.

There will be a Colloquy press conference at 1 p.m.

Security personnel are investigating reports of loud explosions heard on the campus late Wednesday night.

The noises, it is reported, appeared to come from the Pollock and East Halls areas and preliminary investigation indicates fireworks and similar devices produced the loud noises.

Students went over the top in donating blood when the American Red Cross Bloodmobile visited the campus this week.

The students exceeded the 300-pint quota by more than 100 pints, contributing 198 pints Tuesday and 203 Wednesday. In addition, nearly 50 volunteers were rejected for various reasons.

Members of Alpha Phi Omega, men's service fraternity, took care of the installation and removal of the unit and the advance publicity

Because of the PIAA track and field meet at Beaver Stadium tomorrow, the road south of the stadium, between University Drive and Porter Rd., will be closed to traffic from 7:30 a.m. until after the 5:30 p.m. meet.

Persons driving to the University Park airport or other points in that area will go via Park Rd., north of the stadium, or Porter Rd., leading from E. College Ave.

An album of campus scenes here has been published by The Pennsylvania State University Press. The book is titled, "This Is Penn State. A Photographic View of The Pennsylvania State University Park Campus."

In addition to 114 pages of black and white photographs, the book contains extensive historical notes prepared by Margaret T. Riley, University alumna and staff member of the Penn State Room at Pattee.

Scannell To Deliver Awards Address

Press Group To Convene

Robert J. Scannell, University Senate chairman, will address the first annual awards assembly of The Press Association of Commonwealth Campuses at 8 p.m. today in the Hetzel Union Building Terrace Room.

He is expected to speak on the history and functions of the Senate and the role of the campus press, and will respond to questions.

The Press Association represents the newspapers of the University's 19 branch campuses. Delegates from the newspapers will be on campus for a two-day conference which begins at 1:30 p.m. today.

The editors and staff members will hear Cassius Clay's keynote address for Colloquy tonight in Rec Hall.

Included on the agenda are tours of the offices of The Daily Collegian, the composing rooms of the Centre Daily Times and the facilities of the Pennsylvania Mirror.

Gerry Lynn Hamilton, president of The Press Association, said that the Spring Conference is reserved for business, "but we have held successful training conferences during the summer and regional conferences during Winter Term."

A slate of seven officers are up for election and several pieces of legislation will be considered by the assembly.

A resolution endorsing "Age 18 Vote" in Pennsylvania and instructing officials of The Press Association to work in support of the proposal before the state legislature will be presented by Thomas Coleman, executive vice president and candidate for president.

"With organized grass roots support from the students of Pennsylvania and with impetus given by the student press, we could demonstrate our desire and ability to vote at age 18," Coleman said.

"If the resolution is adopted by the General Assembly of The Press Association, we will join with other organizations and do our part to implement this proposal," he added.

The Press Association operates a statewide news-gathering cooperative for the Commonwealth Campuses and it is in the process of establishing news outlets with commercial papers.

Coleman explained that these two programs could be used to help publicize the "Age 18 Vote" campaign.

John Thompson, former editor of

The Daily Collegian, initiated The Press Association in 1964. Since then it has grown from one basic idea into 17 specific programs and services, many of which are now in progress.

The purposes of The Press Association today include increasing communication and cooperation among member newspapers, providing information and services to them and acting as spokesman for them.

Training conferences with a supporting critique and recognition of member papers is the main program. Training conferences encompass all phases of publishing.

An administrative staff at University Park handles most of the affairs of The Press Association. It is headquartered in the offices of The Collegian.

Lion Nine Travels

By DAN DONOVAN

Assistant Sports Editor
The Penn State baseball team learned yesterday that it was No. 5, but the players aren't letting that stop them.

"We were the fifth team," Coach Chuck Medlar said. "NYU, Seton Hall, Cornell and Lion first baseman Mike Egleston was named to the NCAA All-District team yesterday.

Colgate got the bids, but it was an honor to even be considered.

Medlar thinks that the difference may have just been one of those three extra-inning losses the Lions (11-7) suffered.

As for the rest of the season, Medlar aims at showing the rest of the district that they were wrong. "What we want now is to have a good season," he said.

The first stumbling block in winning those remaining games will be Mansfield tomorrow. The Lions travel to Mansfield for a doubleheader, and it will not be an easy day.

The Mansfield team is usually a push-over for the Lions, but this year is different. They are enjoying their best season to date as they boast a 11-8 record and a 4-3 win over tournament-bound Cornell.

What should make the twin bill even harder for the Lions is the fact that Mansfield owns a mostly senior team that will be playing its last college baseball game.

Hurling for Mansfield will be either Scott Taylor or Ron Carter. Both seniors, they will be backed up by soph Dave Hagerdorn.

Leading the hitting is Tom Castle, a sophomore who recently won the team Most Valuable Player trophy.

Medlar will counter with his two aces tomorrow. Roy Swanson (5-4) has been better than his won-lost record shows.

Gary Manderbach (3-1) will be the lefty hurler for the Lions tomorrow.

The Lions plan no lineup changes for tomorrow, only the chance to prove that the No. 5 team in the district is still pretty good.

Golfers Travel to Army; Cadets Tough at Home

By JOHN PESOTA Collegian Sports Writer

It's an old golfing axiom that the home player or home team in any match has a distinct advantage over any visitor. That extra bit of local knowledge the home player accumulates with repeated practice can be just enough to turn a close contest in his favor.

The Lion linksmen of Coach Joe Boyle have encountered no difficulties thus far this season on foreign links. They have a spotless 4-0 record in road contests. In fact, the closest State has come to dropping one away from home was last week's 5-2 win over Navy.

But State is not taking any chances in its final road encounter tomorrow at West Point. The team left University Park this morning at 8:00 o'clock to arrive at West Point early.

Boyle plans no lineup changes, as he carries an 8-1 slate into the contest. With the season almost over there seems little point in juggling his men around now.

a second place finish in the Eastern Championships.

Tom Apple, Nick Raasch, and Frank Guise follow "Hibber" to make up the big four in Penn State golf circles. Apple and Raasch are both 6-3. Raasch, the blond belter from New York, lost his first three but has been invincible since, streaking to six straight wins.

The final three men have certainly been no load on the team. Mack Corbin is 7-2, including five straight. Fred Shultz has been a pleasant surprise, winning consistently on his way to a 7-1-1 slate. Andy Noble has chipped in with a 5-3 record.

Boyle expects his charges to have a tough contest on their hands. "Our guys have been practicing and we're hoping they're up for it," Boyle said. "I don't know too much about Army although they beat Navy by one shot in the Easterns. They're usually pretty tough on their course. We'll have our hands full."

The course at Army is the kind that favors the home team. "They have a cute back nine," the coach remarked. "It's short with a lot of doglegs and you have to play short. There is a lot of local knowledge involved."

The Lions' early departure will be an attempt to neutralize Army's home course advantage. Being away has not adversely effected State's play thus far this season, but victories in golf can never be taken for granted. And a spirited Army team should be doubly difficult to handle on its own course.

Thinclads End Dual Meets With Season's Toughest Foe

Saving the best for last is the most desirable scheduling for a track team. Track men try to build themselves up to peak for the post season tournaments.

Another advantage to having to meet the finest last is that the team gets to practice against superior competition right before seeing the legions of excellent athletes in the tournaments.

Penn State's track schedule has been an almost perfect one. While there have been no soft spots on the Lion slate, the season will culminate tomorrow with the toughest foe of all—Army.

State has met fine competitor after fine competitor this season on its way to a 3-1 dual meet record and a victory in the Big Four meet, but the Cadets are the strongest team yet.

Army boasts a tradition of deep track teams, and can send more men in each event than they can send against the Vics. This year is not an exception as the Cadets boast what may be the solidest dual meet team on the East Coast.

Army can field three good men in just about every position. From the javelin to hand-to-hand combat, this depth will be the main worry of the Lions tomorrow.

State boasts a little depth itself, especially in the weight events. Scott Hagy, Fred Kingston, Roger Kauffman, Mike Reid, and Dick Richardson lead a corps of field men who have recently come into their own.

Backed up by Al Muccilli, John Galas, Tom Pavlich, and Joe DeStefano, the Lions have able performers who have led them in the shot put, discuss, hammer throw and javelin.

Two standouts lead the jumpers for State, as John Cabiani and Ray Blinn lead the team. Cabiani high jumps, while Blinn triple jumps and even takes time to broad jump to a few first places.

Ken Brinker is the all-purpose runner for the Lions, as he has been in every conceivable event under 440 yards and has broad jumped for the Lions.

The dual meet season comes to an end for the Lions tomorrow, and they will have a rough opponent in Army, but it will be just the right way to get ready for the ICA tournament.

YDs Take Stand To Back Vigil

By EILEEN McCAULEY
Collegian Staff Writer

The Penn State Campus Young Democrats last night passed a resolution that supports the Undergraduate Student Government's fast and vigil in protest of the war in Vietnam.

The resolution states: "The Campus Young Democrats strongly support the USG fast, vigil and related activities in protest against the war in Vietnam, as approved at the May 8 USG meeting. We commit our organization and its resources in any way useful, to the betterment and success of this USG project. We encourage all students sympathetic to this project to support this project with some form of commitment."

The group also agreed to participate with USG and Young Americans for Freedom in setting up a table in the Hetzel Union Building Tuesday and Wednesday to collect signatures on a letter to U.S. Senator Hugh C. Scott.

Urges Repeal

The letter urges support of a bill which would repeal the emergency detention provision of the McCarron Act of 1950. The provision places persons considered dangerous to the government in detention centers after a state of national emergency has been declared by the President.

According to Bruce Shaw, YD communications director, there have been rumors that the law might be applied in the future to black militants. Communists and students who consistently disrupt campuses.

The McCarron Act never has been applied in the United States.

Post cards also will be available at the table asking students to write to the State Attorney General for postponement of the execution of a Rockview State Correctional Institute prisoner accused of first degree murder. The execution was prevented last year by "public outcry," according to Shaw.

"What crime the prisoner actually committed doesn't matter," said YD member Bob Slobod. "The issue is simply a stand against capital punishment."

RFK Memorial Services

The members also discussed the possibility of holding memorial services to commemorate the assassination of Robert F. Kennedy on June 5.

Participants in a candlelight service would walk from the HUB to Schwab on the evening of June 5. At Schwab, clerical members of various faiths would participate in a service. Voluntary contributions to the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Fund would be accepted.

Shaw also presented the results of several bills signed by students in the HUB several weeks ago concerning Vietnam and the draft.

The bill which urges military de-escalation in Vietnam received 306 signatures, the highest number and the bill which prohibits the use of draftees in undeclared wars without the consent of draftees received 261 signatures, the lowest number.

Faculty Club

THE PRELIMINARY DRAWINGS of the new faculty club have been completed by architect, Minoru Yamasaki. Pictured is the north elevation of the club which will be opposite the Hetzel Union Building, near College Avenue. The club is being financed from gifts from alumni, friends, faculty and possibly foundations through the Penn State Foundation.

Irvis To Speak at Dinner

K. Leroy Irvis, Democratic Majority Leader of the State House of Representatives, will be the guest speaker at a Democratic fund-raising dinner Wednesday at the Nittany Lion Inn.

Irvis visited the University last term to discuss with University President Eric A. Walker and the Black Student Union the alleged racial imbalance here. "We sought and received ample discussion with top Administration people to convey the peculiar problems of the blacks and to acquire an understanding of the need for a more reasonable racial balance," Irvis explained.

Irvis supported all of the Black Student Union's 13 requests to the Administration. His suggestions to Walker included the necessity of four or five active recruiters for black students.

Irvis' recommendation to increase the budget allotted to the University by $1 million is presently being discussed in the legislature. The additional million dollars is to be earmarked for increasing black enrollment.

Lewis K. Manderino, candidate for the State Supreme Court, also will be present at the dinner.

Tickets for the dinner are available from all Democratic committees.

Committee To Review Faculty Club Proposal

By JIM HARE
Collegian Staff Writer

A committee of faculty, trustees, alumni and members of the administrative staff has been appointed to help determine policies for a proposed University Faculty Club.

Faculty and Administration representatives on the committee are Richard G. Cunningham, head of the Department of Mechanical Engineering; Margorie East, chairman of the University Senate Faculty Affairs Committee, and Robert J. Scannell, chairman of the Senate.

The Faculty Club's primary function, according to Mrs. East, will be to "bring loyalty and cohesion among the faculty into focus on the University rather than on professional ambition and outside interests."

"A faculty club is not a new idea to this campus," Mrs. East said. "It has been around for eight or nine years. Most other large universities have faculty clubs." Mrs. East cited Ohio State, Michigan State and Harvard Universities as examples.

Foundation Grants

Frederick J. Close, a member of the Board of Trustees, is chairman of the Faculty Club Committee. Close represents the Board in planning and financing the project.

The club will be financed primarily through foundation grants and donations from alumni and private individuals as well as contributions from the University faculty.

A plan has been proposed to place Club membership fees on a sliding scale commensurate with salary.

Last week Close announced that preliminary plans for the building have been completed by architect Minoru Yamasaki. A site south of the Hetzel Union Building near College Ave. has been selected for its construction.

Club Facilities

The building is designed to provide facilities for faculty dining with three separate dining rooms and a cocktail lounge. Plans also call for offices for Faculty Club officials, a library, game rooms and four bedroom suites for visiting distinguished guests.

In addition, there is to be a men's gymnasium complete with swimming pool, sauna bath and squash courts and possibly an art gallery and rooftop garden.

"Membership policies have not been fully established," Mrs. East said, "but it is expected that there will be committees appointed later to work out these and other aspects of the club."

'Fringe Benefits'

"One of its functions is to maintain an atmosphere that will attract top personnel to the University through so-called 'fringe benefits' rather than strict reliance on a widely fluctuating pay scale," she added.

Mrs. East said that possible questions over whether it is wise to separate faculty from students "can be answered in that it is wise to separate them when they choose to be separate." "There will still be professors eating in the HUB, but the club will give the faculty a place to meet and pursue mutual interests and relationships on campus," she said.
