The Nation

Thieu May End Boycott of Peace Talks

SAIGON — President Nguyen Van Thieu may decide to end his boycott of the Paris peace talks, possibly within two weeks, if he gets certain reassurances from Washington, government sources reported yesterday.

The reassurances included a pledge from Washington that Thieu will never have to accept a coalition with the Communist-led Viet Cong, these sources said.

The informants said there was a growing feeling among members of Thieu's government and members of the Senate and National Assembly that South Vietnam must join the Paris negotiations eventually.

Any decision on the peace talks issue probably would follow a reshuffle of the Cabinet. Informants said if a stronger cabinet is created, Thieu would feel more secure and might not feel it necessary that his delegation outrank that of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front at Paris.

Rusk Warns NATO of Russian Threat

BRUSSELS, Belgium — The United States served notice yesterday it believes any Soviet attack on Yugoslavia or Austria will imperil the security of the whole 15-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk also was quoted as telling NATO foreign ministers a Russian thrust into Romania will spark an even greater crisis for Europe than the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Accounts of Rusk's speech were made known to newsmen by conference officials. The secretary's aides broadly confirmed what they called the passing references he made to Austria and Yugoslavia. They neither confirmed nor denied his remarks on Romania explaining Rusk himself could not remember alluding to that independent-minded Communist country.

The North Atlantic Council of foreign ministers, beginning a two-day survey of world affairs and especially of European matters, was debating the implications of the Czechoslovak incident.

Czechs Await Russian Policy Debate

PRAGUE — Communist party Central Committee members battled on behind closed doors in a crucial policy debate yesterday with the Czechoslovak public almost completely in the dark about what was going on.

Some reports filtering out of the meeting said pro-Soviet, or conservative speakers were making personal attacks on party chief Alexander Dubcek and other reform leaders in the session's second day.

Prague students, showing their apprehension, planned sit-in demonstrations in their departments beginning over the weekend to a recent clampdown on the press and ban on demonstrations.

But the Prague student leadership bowed to government threats of force and said there would be no street demonstrations on Sunday when a march had been planned to commemorate the 29th anniversary of the day Hitler closed Czechoslovak universities to punish anti-Nazi demonstrators.

The World

Nixon Makes Peace Gesture to USSR

NEW YORK — President-elect Richard M. Nixon has sent a message to the Soviet Union expressing confidence that there can be great strides toward world peace and security in the years just ahead.

"It is now more essential than ever," Nixon said, "that our two peoples work together, in a spirit of mutual respect and with a recognition of the special responsibilities we share for the peace of the world."

"I am sure," Nixon said, "great strides can be taken in the years just ahead, toward the genuine peace and security that people everywhere yearn for."

Nixon put forth his views in a telegram, sent Thursday and made public yesterday, to Nikolai V. Plovdiv, chairman of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet. Plovdiv had sent a message of congratulations to Nixon this week.

During his campaign for the presidency, Nixon said he favored a series of summit meetings between the leaders of the two countries, but a Nixon aide said the message has nothing to do with that.

Bishops Loosen Contraceptive Ban

WASHINGTON — The nation's bishops opened the way yesterday for Catholic married couples to use contraceptives if their consciences permit it.

The bishops said couples will not be cut off from communion or turned away from the church for breaking Pope Paul VI's continued ban on artificial birth control.

They suggested certain circumstances—although they named none—can reduce the moral wrong, as their church views it, of disobeying the ban.

The compromise, stitched together after a week of controversy over birth control and the Vietnam war, was passed 180 to 8 by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops just before its windup.

The bishops backed conscientious objection to a specific war and called over-all for an end to the military draft. They questioned whether the war in Vietnam is worth its cost in human suffering.

The bishops said Vietnam had demonstrated that military force alone is not enough to solve internal political conflicts or accomplish peace.

The State

Pittsburgh Faces Budget Deficit

PITTSBURGH — City council's finance committee chairman said yesterday Pittsburgh faces a $15 million budgetary deficit for 1969 and may try to tax hospitals and other nonprofit organizations to wiggle out of a financial bind.

Philip Baskin said the city is not currently authorized to levy taxes on nonprofit groups and would have to ask permission of the State Legislature.

He said the proposal under consideration would tax the revenues of hospitals and private clubs like the exclusive Duquesne Club or the neighborhood American Legion meeting hall.

He said the city was not thinking about taxing churches at the present time.

The tax was one of a number of measures Baskin outlined at a news conference as possible ways for the city to get itself out of its dilemma.

Baskin said the city was not in the red for 1968 but normal increases in salaries, pensions and equipment costs along with fat pay hikes for police and firemen will leave the city with the huge deficit next year.

Budget Battle Predicted in House

HARRISBURG — The leader of the soon-to-be Democratic majority in the State House of Representatives says Gov. Shafer can expect a tooth and nail fight on his 1969-70 budget—especially if it is tied to new consumer taxes.

Chief among the consumer taxes being aired by Shafer and Republican legislators is a state income tax.

Republican leaders say the governor put them on notice earlier this week that the budget he will present in January will run between $2.1 and $2.4 billion. He also indicated he was generally opposed to new taxes on business.

Herbert Fineman, D-Philadelphia, current House minority leader and chief contender for the House speakership when the Democrats take over in January, already sees opposition to Shafer on two counts.

"We the Democrats are going to control all the committees in the House, and we're going to take a hard look at expenditures and possible new taxes to finance them," Fineman said yesterday.

University Not a Student Laboratory

OSGA Hears Walker Speak

University President Eric A. Walker said last night that the University could be a place of social action, but in some areas it cannot be a student laboratory. Walker was addressing a dinner meeting in the Hetzel Union Building Terrace Room of the Organization of Student Government Associations, which represents all Commonwealth Campus student governments.

"When students come to a college, they are admitting that they don't know everything there is to know, and they are more or less admitting that the professors know more than the students," he said.

"You came to Penn State to learn. We start out by teaching you a lot of facts. These facts aren't worth very much unless you learn to use them," he said.

He said students should rely on their education "to think, to form opinions" which can be defended by facts and reason.

Authority and Responsibility

"Too many people start doing before they start thinking," Walker said. "When you start to do something, you are exerting your authority, and with all authority goes responsibility."

Walker said it is "easier to try the first step of leadership in a situation where you can do something, measure the results and say that was good, that was bad, and go from there."

He said Commonwealth Campus students are fortunate because their "learning laboratories" are smaller than University Park and when they make mistakes the results are not so disastrous.

Easier to Become Student Leader

He suggested that it is much easier to become a student leader at a smaller campus, which provides more practical experience for students.

"We expect great things from the Commonwealth Campuses," Walker said. "We now find in our studies that we have to make them increase in size."

Next year the Commonwealth Campuses will become mandatory two-year institutions, according to Walker. "And the following year some of them will have to become three-year, and the year after that some may be four-year."

Changing Relationships

If it takes place the relationship between the Commonwealth Campuses and the University Park Campus will have to change, according to Walker. This would involve student government and the University Senate.

Ralph L. DeShong, assistant to the dean of student affairs for Commonwealth Campuses, accepted honorary memberships for himself and Merle E. Campbell, Dean of Student Affairs for Commonwealth Campuses.

Gerry Hamilton, OSGA president, made the presentations. He said, "Dean Campbell and Mr. DeShong have been instrumental in helping The Press Association to achieve the success it has during the past year."

OSGA, USG Pull Together

Jim Womer, president of the Undergraduate Student Government, spoke to the opening session of the OSGA congress. He said he hoped that OSGA and USG could pull together to get important changes for the students at University Park and the Commonwealth Campuses.

Conditions are right in State General Assembly for such changes as rent control of off-campus housing and lowering the voting age to 18, he said.

Fred Sayen, the Commonwealth Campus representative to the University Senate Committee on Undergraduate Student Affairs (SCUSA), explained that he is "a lobby for OSGA" and could speak before the Senate to make sure that it understood the Commonwealth Campuses.

Alex Kashock, OSGA vice president, reported that OSGA has initiated committees to study the transfer student housing situation and the University Park orientation program.

He said that OSGA has initiated a committee to investigate the possibilities of recruiting students from disadvantaged areas.

Study Problems

OSGA sessions met yesterday afternoon to study problems involved with regional conferences and finances. SGA will hold its final sessions this morning.

Thomas Ritchey, alternate Commonwealth Campus representative to SCUSA, will present a summary of the "Joint Statement on the Rights and Freedoms of Students," which was written by representatives of the American Association of University Professors, the National Students Association, the American Association of Colleges, the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators and the National Association of Women Deans and Counselors.

The statement asserts that students have certain rights and freedoms which they are entitled to, such as the right to have an adviser at disciplinary meetings and the freedom from double jeopardy.

Campus SGA Adopts Statement

Altoona Campus Student Government Association adopted the Statement last Winter Term, and has proposed that OSGA adopt it on behalf of all Commonwealth Campus students.

Edward Swierczewski, president of the New Kensington SGA, will propose a bill to provide operating funds for SGA. The bill, titled the Assessment Act, proposes that each Commonwealth Campus SGA provide funds on an annual assessment plan UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT Eric A. Walker suggested last night that Commonwealth Campuses may have to become mandatory two-year institutions next year to accommodate a growing enrollment. Sitting next to Walker is Ronald Batchelor, president of the Organization of Student Government Associations. Walker was addressing a dinner meeting of OSGA in the HUB Terrace Room.

Trend Reverse Seen

By MARC KLEIN
Collegian Staff Writer

The president of the local chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) predicted Thursday night that the trend toward increasing the rights of individuals involved in criminal cases will be reversed.

Stephan Boyan Jr., assistant professor of political science, said that this country is returning to the practices followed six years ago. Legislation which guaranteed such things as informing the accused of his rights and representation by counsel before being questioned are being reversed, according to Boyan.

President-elect Richard M. Nixon said in his campaign statements that such legislation weakened police powers. Boyan claimed that this is not so. He said that Nixon's belief proves that the accused will continue to come under attack.

He noted that this year Congress passed a statute stating that a lawyer need not be present when the accused is put in a line-up or questioned; the police no longer have to inform the accused of his rights when arrested; wiretapping is permitted by police without a warrant in an emergency and police can hold the accused for six hours before charging him.

Boyan said that Nixon's attorney general and his new Supreme Court appointments will "vigorously support" the new legislation.

Boyan called this new trend harmful because, he said, "One of the greatest lawless forces in society today is the police."

"As the courts crack down on police practices, the police decide that they are going to punish by themselves without going through the courts," Boyan added.

He claimed that the day after the civil rights riots in Newark, N.J., police shot down any remaining riot participants. He also accused police of beating students in Chicago during the Democratic National Convention.

"They're (police) not paying attention to the courts and to their superiors," Boyan said.

The Rev. Alan Cleeton, former head of the Wesley Foundation and a member of the ACLU board, said that people get outraged when whites face police brutality but ignore it when blacks are involved.

Paris Talks May Resume; Thieu Expected to End Silence

PARIS (AP) — There was a general air of expectancy among American officials here yesterday that a South Vietnamese decision to join the Paris peace talks may be imminent.

But they avoided making any prediction on when President Nguyen Van Thieu might drop his boycott and end a two-week deadlock on what role should be played in the talks by the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

Thieu saw U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker in Saigon yesterday morning for the first time in nearly a week and a full report on their talk was sent to Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, chief U.S. negotiator at the Paris talks.

Formula Kept Vague

In Brussels, Secretary of State Dean Rusk told foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization that the talks, once they begin, could go on for a long time and may be accompanied by more hard fighting.

Rusk told his NATO colleagues that the formula under which the United States and North Vietnam agreed to enlarge the peace talks was kept deliberately vague.

The formula in principle allowed each to organize its side of the table as it wished, without obliging the other to approve or recognize the participants.

Thus, the United States informed North Vietnam

it would invite the Saigon government to the conference table.

North Vietnam informed the United States it would invite the Front. The United States insisted that the talks thus would proceed on a two-sided basis, while Hanoi insisted the talks have become a "four-party conference."

Neither the United States nor North Vietnam accepted the other's interpretation of the agreement. But this difference would not have prevented the enlarged talks getting under way Nov. 6 as scheduled if Thieu had approved the ambiguous formula.

Instead, Thieu balked at the agreement and said he would not send a delegation if the Front, a rebel movement in South Vietnam, were given the status of an independent delegation.

Two-Point Alternative

Thieu proposed a two-point alternative which would place the American negotiators under South Vietnamese direction and would require a formal commitment from Hanoi to downgrade the front delegation to an integral component of the North Vietnamese delegation.

American officials said the first of Thieu's points might be negotiable between Saigon and Washington, but there was nothing the United States could do to compel Hanoi to organize its side in accordance with Thieu's wishes.

IS IT TRUE they roll the sidewalks up at 5:30 p.m.? No, it's State College at night. Where have all the people gone?

Scholarship Drive Begins Monday

King Fund Week Gets Underway

By MARGE COHEN
Collegian Staff Writer

A campaign will get underway here next week. But rather than supporting a national candidate, the drive will be for "the futures of economically and socially disadvantaged students," Ted Thompson, vice-president of the Undergraduate Student Government, said.

Next week has been designated as "Martin Luther King Fund Week" by University President Eric A. Walker. During the five-day period, contributions will be solicited for the King Fund to be used to provide financial assistance to deprived poverty students from urban areas who desire to enroll here.

$10,000 Goal

The minimum goal of the drive is $10,000. "This isn't just for black high school students," Thompson said. "This is for any minority group student who is financially unable to attend Penn State."

"This group of students is an untapped resource," he continued. "Both the community and industry could profit by their further education."

Thompson, with Frederick C. Jones, assistant coordinator of University Programs for the Disadvantaged, is co-chairman of the fund drive. David Gottlieb, professor of Human Development, is chairman.

Thompson explained, "This isn't just a student government project or a faculty project or an administration project. This is a project of the total Penn State community with everybody involved."

Clark Arrington, president of the University Jazz Club, said Club members would begin the campaign drive Monday and Tuesday with booths set up on the ground floor of the Hetzel

Union Building. Collections will extend from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Wednesday through Friday at additional tables set up on the first and ground floors of the HUB, Thompson added.

Tables will also be set up in the dining halls during the lunch and dinner hours for donations.

Starting Wednesday, each contributor to the fund will receive a black and white button expressing the theme for the week in return for his donation. The button reads simply "A beginning..."

Not only does the theme "indicate that more ideas and programs could spark from this one idea," Thompson explained, but it also "indicates that this is only one point in which efforts have to be made to provide higher education for those who would be unable to attain it without financial assistance."

Thompson continued, "this is not a stopping point, for the children of the recipients of this program will grow up in an environment different from that of their parents with more and better benefits."

A fund closing program is planned for 4 p.m. Friday in the HUB Ballroom.

In addition to Arrington, Thompson and Gottlieb, speakers at the program will include Charles Davis, area chairman of the Penn State Human Rights Commission; Wilbert Manley, president of the Douglas Association and Jim Womer, president of USG.

Eric Prystowsky, president of the Interfraternity Council, and Gene Cavanaugh, president of the Men's Residence Council, also will speak.

Just because the fund solicitation will end Friday does not mean more money will not go into the King Fund.

Next Sunday, the Jazz Club will sponsor "urban Blues man" Budd Guy in concert to commemorate the King Fund Week. Rather than charge admission to the concert, Jazz Club President Arrington said donations for the King Scholarship will be accepted.

Prohibitive Status

The King scholarship is "directed away from the high scholastic minority group student," Thompson said, "because this student will receive financial aid from this or other universities anyway."

The scholarship is directed toward "the student whose economic and social status is such that, without financial assistance, entrance to this university would be prohibited," he said.

A screening committee of five members will be set up to interview prospective recipients of the scholarship. Two of the members will be undergraduate students from backgrounds similar to those of the potential recipients.

Two faculty members and the director of the Penn State Upward Bound program will also be part of the selection committee.

LBJ Makes Foreign Policy; Nixon Does Not Have Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told the nation and the world, emphatically yesterday, that he, not President-elect Richard M. Nixon, will make all decisions on U.S. foreign policy until Nixon is inaugurated.

Johnson appeared to dispute statements by Nixon about "prior consultation and prior agreement" between them. And qualified informants said the president-elect holds no veto power over Johnson's action.

But the Nixon camp moved swiftly to head off any major blowup. A top assistant to the president-elect assured Johnson that Nixon has no intention of intruding into the foreign-policy prerogatives of the White House.

Sources close to the incoming president said in New York that Bryce N. Harlow, already named as a special presidential assistant to Nixon, phoned Johnson Thursday to assure him there is no attempt "to presume on the constitutional authority of the President."

Harlow was said to be convinced there is no basic misunderstanding or disagreement between Johnson and Nixon over the mechanics of the transition of power.

Although he took pains to assert his authority, Johnson gave a personal and special welcome to Robert D. Murphy, Nixon's liaison man on foreign affairs.

And administration officials said privately there would be extensive consultation with the incoming president although the arrangement between him and Johnson is apparently vague and imprecise.

Irony of Vietnam

The North Vietnamese government is more just, more efficient and less corrupt than the South Vietnamese government. The North Vietnamese government is at least as democratic as the South Vietnamese government.

Amidst the political and military turmoil which has afflicted Southeast Asia for as long as anyone can remember, Americans tend to lose sight of these facts. Americans have been so smothered in polemical anti-communist propaganda that many assume that any country which adopts Marx's label is automatically oppressive and tyrannical.

Ho Chi Minh is a dictator and undoubtedly crushes any opposition that arises. But he is also an ardent nationalist. He loves his people and since he took power in 1946 has thoroughly destroyed the inequities which kept the vast majority of them living at the bare subsistence level. He expropriated the landed aristocracy and redistributed the land among the peasants. Those corrupt merchants and businessmen whom he didn't kill went scurrying to the south.

In contrast, the government of South Vietnam has not done anything to help its miserable people. What land has not been destroyed by American bombs and vegetation killer is owned by absentee landlords in Saigon. They are in Saigon both because it is too dangerous to live in the countryside, and because most of them have tasks to perform for the army.

A large portion of the army and air force officer corps consists of members of the landed gentry. This is one of the main reasons why Marshall Ky and his successor General Thieu have refused to fulfill their promises of land reform. To do so would be to disenfranchise their fellow officers and invite a military coup.

But then, if we may judge by Ky and Thieu's past, it is doubtful that they care much about the Vietnamese people. Both fought with the French against their own people in the Gallic version of the Vietnamese war. Ky and Thieu's chief interest is to retain power and they, like their more popular counterpart in the North, do not quibble about democratic principles when their power is threatened.

The mere mention of diffusing that power so that it is more representative of the people will get you at least a five-year jail term. Witness peace candidate Dzu and the three newspapers that have been closed down in the last two weeks.

No, we are not writing propaganda for the North Vietnamese. We are not giving aid and comfort to the "enemy." The point is that the United States does not automatically confer moral superiority upon its choice of allies. In the case of Vietnam, we are supporting a corrupt, reactionary military dictatorship which has no mandate to rule, against a communist dictatorship with widespread support among the peasants.

And what is worse, we are allowing the South Vietnamese government to dictate our foreign policy. Presidential adviser Walt Rostow affirmed again Thursday that President Johnson will not allow the formation of a coalition government with the National Liberation Front. Richard Nixon also rejects a coalition. The NLF represents at least one-third of the South Vietnamese people by day and many more by night. At this low point in its popularity, the Saigon government represents only the army and the businessmen.

The United States is thus defeating both of its original purposes in the war. We intervened originally with the intention of securing self-determination for the South Vietnamese. Yet we are militarily and politically supporting a government in Saigon which allows no self-determination and which refuses to participate in any peace settlement which would guarantee free elections.

We are also defeating our original foreign policy goal — to contain Red China. It is now generally recognized that a united Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos under a nationalist Ho Chi Minh would provide a more formidable bulwark against Chinese expansion than any American intervention ever could.

And perhaps that is the supreme irony of the war. We have sacrificed 30,000 American lives and $100 billion, and maybe we have been fighting on the wrong side.

Polluted, Perverted Values

TO THE EDITOR: Have we truly lost our sense of priorities regarding the relative values of property and lives? The evidence on this campus certainly leads to an affirmative answer: no longer do we value property over life! A few examples illustrate my point.

The Pep Rally following the UCLA game was reported to have cost the university $1,300 in damaged property. And a goal post, during the riot that followed the Army game, was torn down by so-called "students" (or were they not outside agitators?) at a reported cost of $2,300. Thus, in only a scant month student riots cost the taxpayers of this state at least $3500, or approximately enough money to pay the yearly tuition for 6 students.

Such civil disorders, theft and ravaging of property, must not be tolerated and rioters must not be coddled by the Administration and allowed to destroy University property. If the University no longer respects its own property, can it possibly expect its students to do so?

On the other hand, without hesitation did the University President bring in the forces of Law and Order to protect the lives and limbs of certain military guests when their collective personal safety was threatened by student dissidents. President Walker further demonstrated his compassion for life by ensuring that those students be bodily thrown from the path of his motorcade (against their irrational will) to prevent cars and buses from running over the students and perhaps killing them. So highly does the University value human life.

But where were the forces of law and order when our property was threatened? Nowhere, so far as one can perceive from this publication. Were the perpetrators of such violence apprehended and prosecuted? Once again, the answer is no!

In conclusion, this comparison demonstrates that this University has forgotten the primacy of property and thus polluted and perverted its values in so doing.

Forward Nittany-March

TO THE EDITOR: It is becoming quite evident that the students of Nittany Halls are responding to the conditions in which they are forced to live. Furniture with PSC 46-47 (meaning Penn State College — 1946-1947) stamped on the side shows how long it has been since the University paid any attention to what goes on down here.

I would like to thank The Daily Collegian for its coverage of the problem which we residents face, and hope that in the future the University will significantly improve the conditions without continual prodding. Forward Nittany — March

Task of the Powerless

TO THE EDITOR: You are annoyed that some students fail to recognize certain basic rights, such as those of General Westmoreland and to quilly watch his Alma Mater's football team play, and the right of President Walker to invite whom he chooses to his home.

And you base your objection on a commendable principle of equality: that all men have certain inalienable rights. But of course, in this contention you do an injustice to the Walkers and Westmorelands of the world. The fact is that some men are more equal than others, have greater rights than others, for they also have power.

From Viet Nam war commander, to adviser on suppression of guerrilla warfare in Latin America, to planner of repression of the ghetto population, to spectator of football, all these are the inalienable rights of General Westmoreland, Army Chief-of-Staff.

Our President too has certain inalienable rights: the right to approve of responsible dissent, the right to define it, the right to represent the academic community and the right to ignore its sentiments; the right to deplore lawlessness and lack of integrity and the right to sit on the boards of profitmaking institutions (including the one blessed with the University bank account); the right to call for student participation and concern and the right to listen or speak to 500 concerned students; the right to paternally protect from their own pleasures 25,000 students and the right to call forth the Campus Patrol, Campus Security, Pa. State Police, and State College Police to remove those students who obstruct his planned pleasures.

And finally, it is the right of the President, in the name of the rights of his freedom, to bring on Campus whom he pleases, be it the Ordnance Research Lab whose science is repression, or General Westmoreland, whose chosen duty is repression.

A university where the Student Government freely denies itself a voice in student affairs because it knows that it lacks power, what is obscene is that student activism is deemed as a trespass on the rights of those who have power. It is the business of the powerful to perpetuate their rights; the task of the powerless is the contestation of the rights of power.

Please Cut Us a Break

TO THE EDITOR: The students of this University are proud of the accomplishments our football team has achieved this year. With an Orange Bowl Bid nearly certain, many students, including this one, would like to continue their support by traveling to Miami for the game.

Since the game is being played on Wednesday night, Jan. 1, many students will find it very difficult to be back in time to register on Friday, Jan. 3. My suggestion is — all students who are planning to attend the Orange Bowl game, make their intention known by presenting their ticket at the Department of Scheduling.

All these students' class cards would be held out of regular registration Friday, and would register Saturday afternoon, Jan. 4. It would be a two or three hour administrative headache on Saturday afternoon, but approximately 5,000 students would consider it as a wonderful Christmas present. How about cutting us students a break — Dr. Walker?

Defense for Smith, Carlos

TO THE EDITOR: John Carlos and Tommie Smith may not have been representing Warren Coleman's generation ("Black Glove Controversy", Nov. 14), but they were certainly representing the young black generation.

Their actions were designed to be symbolic of the black man's feelings against racial injustices in this country. Since sports is probably the only area, other than entertainment, both noticed and respected, the Olympic Games was the best place to bring these feelings to world opinion.

It has been argued that the peaceful demonstration put on by Carlos and Smith cannot be condoned because it was politically oriented. However, this argument is not valid as the exclusion of South Africa because of its apartheid policy was obviously a political action. The fact that Carlos and Smith were suspended from the games and sent home further shows that the Olympics have political connections.

To merely compete in the Games and win would be a continuation of a trite old black tradition. Carlos and Smith would have been exalted because of their athletic prowess, yet looked down on as being socially unacceptable because of their skin color.

World opinion seems to mean a great deal to the United States. Perhaps the actions of Carlos and Smith have embarrassed the country enough to make it correct the plight of the black man. Hitler possibly would have been stopped sooner had the Jews been able to broadcast their message on world wide television.

PSU Faces Maryland Today As Lions Seek Eighth Win

By DON McKEE
Assistant Sports Editor

Most rookie coaches have some sort of difficulties in their first season but few, if any, go through the sort of unpleasantness that Bob Ward endured last season.

When Ward took over as Maryland's head football coach after Lou Saban went to the Denver Broncos, he knew the Terrapins would be weak. But he didn't know that his all-conference quarterback would get a knee injury in spring drills and be lost for the season. And he certainly couldn't have known he wouldn't win a game all season.

Happily for Ward, and Maryland football fans, things have been better this season, even though it's hard to imagine that they could have been worse.

The Terps lost their first three games but suddenly came to life. They beat North Carolina then went on to upset South Carolina. "This is the happiest day of my life," Ward commented after his first collegiate coaching victory.

Injuries Slow Terps

Since the South Carolina game Ward has gotten somewhat unhappy again. He had his team moving but that old pain to college coaches — injuries — showed up.

Going into the biggest game of the season today Maryland is missing four of its five starting defensive linemen and the right linebacker, and quarterback Alan Pastrana is hurting again.

Pastrana means a lot to Maryland as just his presence in the lineup makes the Terps a threat to score from anywhere. Two years ago he set an Atlantic Coast Conference record by tossing 17 touchdown passes in one season. Last week he threw a 73 yard bomb only to see it called back by a penalty.

If Pastrana is unable to play the Terps will have to go with Dennis O'Hara, a soph who is a good running quarterback, but not the passer Pastrana is.

The uncertainty of the passing game puts extra pressure on the Terp's ground attack, especially on fullback Billy Lovett. The senior is closing in a couple of Maryland records, needing 149 yards in the final two games to the single season record of 904 and 208 yards to set a new career record. He will need to have one of his best days if the Terps are to challenge State, currently second in the nation in defense against rushing.

The men primarily responsible for the average of 81.1 yards per game rushing are ends Lincoln Lippincott, Frank Spaziani and Doug McArthur, tackles Steve Smear and Mike Reid, and linebackers Jim Kates and Jack Ham. That crew has stopped every opponent cold and last week held Miami to just 17 yards on the ground in the decisive second half.

Offense Devastating

While the defense is high in the national statistics the offense hasn't been sitting around on its hands either.

The Lions' ground game has developed into a devastating attack, with Charlie Pittman, Bob Campbell and Don Abbey blasting the line behind the ever-improving blocking of John Kulka, Charlie Zapiec, Dave Bradley, Tom Jackson and Warren Koegel.

Before last week's game, Miami was second in the nation in rushing defense, but by the time State was finished with them, the Hurricanes had dropped out of sight.

Passing Still There

The passing game is there too, although it's used mainly to keep the enemy from concentrating too heavily on the running attack. Chuck Burkhardt has been inaccurate at times but, as coach Joe Paterno says, "when we've had to have the passing attack, we've gotten it."

Whether the Lions travel by land or by air will make little difference today because the Terps aren't in State's class and they probably know it. Playing Penn State is just another of the problems Bob Ward hadn't bargained for when he took that head coaching job.

THE KEY to Maryland's success today is quarterback Alan Pastrana. The senior holds the ACC record for touchdown passes, 17, and is always a threat to throw the bomb.

Meet in New York Monday

Thinclads in IC4A's

By DICK ZELLER
Collegian Sports Writer

The IC4A championships tell the story of a school's cross country season. A team which has a good showing in the IC4As has a successful season. In the final analysis, the dual meet record means very little. The Penn State cross country squad will be heading to New York on Monday to prove that they are a good team.

Fresh off a 6-2 dual meet season, the Lions expect to be top contenders for the team and individual medals.

Last year, after a 5-1 dual meet season, the State team placed a rather disappointing 12th. Ray Smith salvaged the day with a fifth place finish in the individual contest. Smith will be back on Monday along with Al Sheaffer and Phil Peterson. All are seniors who are looking forward to avenging last year's low finish.

Steve Gentry and Mike Schurko, both running this event for the first time in the State colors, add the depth that is needed to place well as a team.

As the Lions discovered last year, it does not help to have one individual place high if the rest of the team can not back him up. It takes five men to win the team event and all five have to be good.

State coach Harry Groves looks optimistically at the performances of his best runners.

"As a team we have come along well," the first year Lion coach said. "The top five runners have been within 32 and 34 seconds of each other during the season."

Cross country championships are a unique type of foot race. In the IC4As, 200 runners will be traveling the five mile track at one time. With this many runners on the course at the same time it takes a certain amount of luck, along with ability.

"The IC4As is an entirely different kind of race than a dual meet," Groves said. "Good runners often don't do well at all."

Villanova was last year's team champion and is a good bet to repeat this season. The defending NCAA champs have an outstanding individual runner in the person of Tom Donnelly and a strong team behind him. The Wildcats were one of the two teams to defeat State in a dual meet this season.

Also Touted The other team that conquered the Lions is also a favorite for IC4A honors. Georgetown is hoping to ride to victory on the coattails of Steve Stageberg, Stageberg, along with Donnelly and Smith, is among the four returning runners from last year's top five.

The fourth returnee is Art Dulong. The Holy Cross ace was last year's individual champion.

Other teams to watch in the meet are Harvard and Manhattan. Harvard has been champion of the Heptagonal Games Association and has an outstanding individual threat in Doug Harvin. Manhattan, host for the meet, is the Metropolitan champion. The Jaspers run behind Brian Kivlan, their challenger for the individual honors.

Two Midwestern teams, Notre Dame and Michigan State, are question marks. Nobody really knows what they might bring into the contest.

"They don't give out many medals in the IC4As," Groves said, "only to the top five runners and the top three teams. We're going up there to win some. It takes a lot of luck to win this race and we can throw the dice as well as anyone else."

It sounds more like gambling, but the Lions could come up with a winning combination.

FAVORITE RECEIVER of quarterback Pastrana, wingback "Sonny" Demczuk has grabbed 22 passes for 202 yards in the Terps' first eight games.

Orange Bowl Scouts Considering Kansas

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Orange Bowl Committee would like to invite Georgia to play Penn State in its New Year's Day football game. Now it's up to Georgia. The Bulldogs must beat Auburn today.

If the Bulldogs stumble, the Miami Bowl most likely will announce Monday — the day bids become legal under NCAA regulations — that its invitation has gone to Kansas of the Big Eight Conference.

There had been earlier speculation that the Georgia-Auburn winner would be asked to meet Penn State, the Eastern powerhouse which has been the No. 1 choice of the Orange Bowl all season.

But in this week's committee discussions, the colorful Kansas Jayhawks moved ahead of Auburn.

One committeeman who has scouted most of the teams on the Orange Bowl list said the Jayhawks were "the most exciting team I saw — a great ball club." Kansas lost to Oklahoma, he said, because "the Sooners were sky high and Kansas just got a little too cocky and made some critical mistakes."

If Kansas is invited, another committee member said, "We'll just have to gamble" that the Jayhawks will beat Missouri in the last Big Eight game on their schedule. Kansas is heavily favored to win Saturday over Kansas State.

However, the Orange Bowl is gambling on Penn State, too. The Lions wind up their season against Syracuse, a red hot Eastern rival that is bound to be fired up for the game.

Challenges Major and Minor

General Returns

Responding to the challenge issued by Collegian number two prognosticator Major Melvin, number one seer Rita "General Lyons" Deeb has consented to return after a few weeks' respite to prove to her boastful counterpart who deserves top ranking.

The General, before running off and getting married, had picked 44 of 63 games correctly for a 70% average, while Melvin, who had two consecutive 16-game victory states, is inching up at .687. It just had to come to a showdown. Challenge rules stipulated that a mutually agreeable 15-game schedule would be used, and that no bribery could be used in getting players to throw any games. So, as the Major and assistant Minor Mouse presented their lists yesterday, the General battles back today.

By RITA "General Lyons" DEEB

Penn State 37, Maryland 7 — The Terps face one of their toughest opponents when they play host to the mighty Nittany Lions. About the weakest component on the Penn State team is the water boy. If you can't get them with the offense, the defensive unit scores. The Lions will stay undefeated on their way to a perfect season.

Army 41, Pitt 13 — Cahill's Cadets will have a good time at Pittsburgh this weekend. The Panthers have about as much football potential as a wet noodle. Lindell will be hitting Jarvis all afternoon while Pitt will be hitting the turf.

Auburn 24, Georgia 21 — The Auburn Tigers have been coming up with all the big wins lately. If they can beat Tennessee and Miami they can pull the punches on the Georgia Bulldogs.

Michigan 39, Wisconsin 0 — Bump Elliott's boys are having one of their best years ever. Ron Jahson is up for All-American and will do his duty tomorrow. This is a warm-up game for the big one next weekend against the number two Buckeyes. The General is going out on a limb and predicting Michigan in the Rose Bowl.

N.C. State 21, Florida State 10 — Earle Edwards' Wolfpack barely squeezed by Duke last Saturday. Tomorrow the story will be different. Ron Sellers isn't enough to make the win inevitable. Go with the white.

Florida 21, Kentucky 17 — Last Saturday Georgia whipped the Gators all over the coastal line with a 51-0 victory. The Wildcats are not an exceptionally strong team but when the going gets rough they make the moves. It will be a squeaker but go Gator scouting tomorrow.

Notre Dame 45, Georgia Tech 13 — The Fighting Irish proved they can win without famed Terry Hanratty. This week will be no exception, sort of a warm up game for next Saturday's big one with USC.

Minnesota 27, Indiana 20 — After upsetting Purdue last Saturday the Gophers are going for the big one again this weekend. It will be close but the General has hung up her flag on the Hoosiers.

Kansas 24, Kansas State 21 — Pepper Rodgers has a winner on his hands and as far as he's concerned one loss is enough. The Jayhawks will be victorious, but not without a battle from the neighboring Wildcats.

Purdue 28, Michigan State 17 — The Boilermakers will resume boiling tomorrow after taking a week off from the heat. If Keyes and Phipps are physically up to par the Boilermakers will assume the winners role again.

Nebraska 24, Colorado 21 — Devaney's Cornhuskers are desperate for a win as are the Buffaloes. This one could be tagged as a tossup but the Huskers will squeak by.

Ohio State 40, Iowa 6 — The Buckeyes have an easy weekend battle and will continue to be undefeated. Next weekend will be the thriller.

Southern Cal 29, Oregon State 21 — O.J. and company will get another test for their No. 1 supremacy. The General would love to see the upset but there's not too much of a chance. No change in the No. 1 ranking this weekend.

Syracuse 24, Navy 13 — Too bad the Middles didn't start winning a few weeks earlier because they may have pulled this one out of the fire. Should the weather be soggy the Middles may pull another upset.

Bowl Bids Set for Monday; Depend on Today's Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

O. J. Simpson, carrying a million dollar price tag, leads top-ranked Southern California into its biggest test of the college football season today on a day when the muddled post-season bowl picture may begin to clear.

Offered the million dollars earlier this week for the management of his services, Simpson is putting off even thinking about such things until the season is over, content for the time being to be the leading warhorse for the Trojans. "We have three tough ball games to play yet," Simpson says. "I don't want to get my mind cluttered up with money and business right now."

The business at hand for Simpson and the Trojans is 13th-ranked Oregon State, currently tied with USC in the Pacific Eight standings. Each is 4-0 in conference play, and the host spot in the Rose Bowl likely will be decided in this one.

The game will be nationally televised by ABC starting at 4:15 p.m. EST. It's the first game of a unique doubleheader in which No. 16 Alabama meets Miami, Fla., in the nightcap at 8 p.m.

While USC will be looking to lift its 7-0 record and move on to the Rose Bowl, second-ranked Ohio State will be trying to move toward the other Rose Bowl berth against Iowa. Ohio State, however, has its big test the following week against Michigan.

The fourth-ranked Wolverines, 7-1 over-all but even with Ohio State at 5-0 in the Big Ten, first must get by Wisconsin today.

Among the teams in the bottom half of the Top Ten there also are four games with bowl overtones. Sixth-ranked Missouri and seventh-ranked Kansas, both 7-1, meet Oklahoma and Kansas State, respectively, while No. 8 Texas takes on TCU and No. 10 Arkansas meets SMU in important Southwest Conference games.

Missouri currently is 5-0 in the Big Eight and Kansas 4-1, with their head-on clash scheduled for Nov. 23. One will likely wind up in the Sugar Bowl, Texas, Arkansas, SMU and Texas Tech currently are tied for the Southwest lead and the host Cotton Bowl spot with 4-1 records. In another game involving a top member, No. 9 Notre Dame plays Georgia Tech.

Soccer Cancelled

Today's soccer match between Penn State and Gettysburg College has been cancelled.

Gettysburg asked that the game be cancelled because of the weather and because their squad has been cut to 14 players due to injuries. The game had been scheduled for 2:00 p.m. today on the field past East Halls.

Chairmen Picked For Orientation

Orientation co-chairmen for 1969 were announced last night. The new co-chairmen are Margie Gohn, Kathy Rittner, Stuart Stein and Marc Steinberg.

Miss Gohn served as Orientation co-chairman during the 1967-68 school year. She is a member of the University Senate Committee for Undergraduate Student Affairs, Naiads, and Chimes, the junior women's honor society. She also serves as membership chairman for Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and as secretary for the Hat Society Council.

Miss Rittner served as Orientation co-chairman summer term. She is Junior Class vice president and a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, Penn State Young Republicans and Chimes.

Stein worked with Orientation this fall as area coordinator for East Halls. He is a member of the Undergraduate Student Government Academic Awareness Committee and the Interfraternity Council Board of Control checker team. Stein also is vice president of Blue Key, the junior mens' honor society, and vice president of Zeta Beta Tau fraternity.

Steinberg is vice president of Phi Sigma Delta fraternity, co-chairman of the IFC Concert Committee and a member of Androcles, the junior mens' honor society.

60% Vote in Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — The smallest percentage of voting-age Americans in 12 years cast ballots in the 1968 presidential election.

An analysis of national totals shows the estimated 72 million people who voted Nov. 5 represent only 60 per cent of the 120 million Americans of voting age.

Not since 1956, when 60.5 per cent of the voting-age population turned out, has the percentage been so small. That was the year Dwight D. Eisenhower was returned to the White House for a second term.

Even if as many as one million ballots remain to be counted this year—a figure that is by no means certain—the turnout would be only 60.8 per cent.

Collegian Notes

Groundbreaking Ceremony Set

Groundbreaking for the first building of the Delaware County Campus will be held at 12:45 p.m. tomorrow at the campus' new site at Yardsley Mill Rd. and Rt. 332, Middletown Township.

University President Eric A. Walker will participate in the ceremonies.

The first building for the new campus will be a three-story structure which will house administrative offices, classrooms, laboratories, a library and an auditorium. Scheduled for completion by the summer of 1970, the building will accommodate approximately 1,500 students.

The Penn State Student Skating Club will sponsor a University skating night from 6 to 8 p.m. tomorrow. The rink will be open to University students only. Students will be required to show their matric cards. The session is free to club members and will cost 35 cents for non-members.

The State College Choral Society will present the New York Chamber Soloists at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the College Area High School auditorium.

The soloists will play oboe quartets by Mozart and Benjamin Britten, the Trio in C minor for strings by Beethoven and a Sonata for violin and cello by Maurice Ravel.

The second lecture of Phi Lambda Epsilon, honorary chemical society, will be held 7:30 p.m. Monday in 111 Boucke. Charles L. Hosler, dean of the College of Earth and Mineral Sciences, will speak on "Better Weather Through Chemistry."

Gene P. Rutledge, executive director of the office of Nuclear Energy Development in Idaho, will speak on Idaho's Nuclear Development Commission at 1 p.m. Monday in 169 Willard.

The University's fourth public seminar on agriculture and rural policy will be held from 3:45 to 5 p.m. Monday in 8 Life Sciences. John F. Timmons, professor of economics at Iowa State University, will speak on "Policy Regarding Use of Rural Resources."

Smith Toulson, assistant professor of music, will present a concert of clarinet music at 8:30 p.m. Monday in the Recital Hall of the Music Building.

The program will feature works of Brahms, Von Weber and Hindemith.

A. Hugh Forster, director of public relations and public affairs of Armstrong Cork Co., will speak to the Management 435 class (Public Relations in Business) of the College of Business Administration at 12:45 p.m. Tuesday in 311 Boucke.

John E. Haag, associate professor of English, will address the English colloquium at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Nittany Lion Inn on "How To Lose a Poem."

Phi Kappa Psi 'Grill' Studies Biafran Crisis

By JERILEA ZEMPEL
Collegian Staff Writer

In the first of a series of forums sponsored by the brothers of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity, Chris Obizoba, a University graduate student from Biafra, explained the civil strife in his native country in a program Wednesday night.

Obizoba, a representative of the Committee to Keep Biafra Alive, presented the case of the Nigerian secessionist state of Biafra.

Analyzing the starvation in Biafra as a result of the Nigerian blockade and reports of relief supplies being poisoned by Nigerians, Obizoba said, "Nigeria is not thinking of Biafran well-being."

"Why should women and children suffer from the evils of war?" he asked, "when they are not involved in the political situation or action of the war."

"Time is against me (as a Biafran)," he said, "But even if towns are over-run by Nigerians, they will find it hard to fight Biafrans in the bush under guerilla conditions."

"Nothing will break our will. It is like the Rock of Gibraltar," he said.

Paul Molnar (12th-pre-law-Glenside), spokesman for the committee, commented on the remarks of Timi Adebajo, a Nigerian diplomat who spoke here Monday.

"It is obvious that the politics of the situation are controversial and many reports are arbitrary," Molnar said. He said that he believes the "issue is a humanitarian one."

Molnar reported that Biafrans are lacking protein-rich food. He suggested that the United States support a relief, not a defense, program in Biafra.

The Committee is sponsoring a door to door canvas in State College today to collect funds.

The brothers of Phi Kappa Psi plan to present regular lectures through the program, dubbed the Phi Psi "grill" after a similar practice originated in Harvard University eating clubs. After the lecture, the audience will be encouraged to ask questions, placing the speaker on the "grill."

According to Phil Freeman (8th-pre-law-Glenside), chairman of the program, the essence of the grill is "the concept of taking the fraternity man and involving him in the outside world."

The forums are tentatively scheduled to be presented every other Wednesday evening next term at the Phi Kappa Psi house. Tapes of each grill will be broadcast over WDFM.

MAKING HEADLINES ACROSS AMERICA

The Betrayal

"COLONEL SAYS U.S. MISLEADS PUBLIC ON VIET NAM"

—NEW YORK TIMES

The most discussed book in America today. The Betrayal has been debated from the halls of Congress to town halls across the nation. Must reading for all students of this conflict. The Betrayal will be a source of reference by all proponents and opponents of the Viet Nam involvement.
